

HOLIDAY TRADE UNPRECEDENTED

Demand For All Lines of Pottery Ware Has Been Extraordinary.

A REVIEW OF THE WEEK

In Brotherhood And Manufacturing Circles — Disputes at New Castle Handled in a Prompt And Satisfactory Manner By Arbitration Board.

The general condition of the pottery trade in the East Liverpool district from the manufacturers' standpoint has been better during the week ending today than in any like period for a long time.

This is easily explained, however, by reason of the fact that the industry is just now enjoying the most brisk and steady trade throughout the entire holiday season.

From now until about the 10th of December there will be no letup in the shipments to all points. In a majority of instances the orders have all been placed and it may be stated that every plant in the city has fared well in the distribution.

From a careful canvass of the situation it is learned that the demand so far has been well balanced, and no particular line or class of goods has been more sought after than another, with the possible exception of specialties. Every manufacturing concern in the city turning out this class of articles has been taxed to its utmost capacity, and it is doubtful if the middle of December will see all the orders cleaned up. The scramble for specialties is said to be greater this year than during any other holiday season since the concerns of this locality have demanded a share of the world's patronage. A prominent manufacturer is responsible for the statement that vastly more attention has been paid to specialty articles this year than ever before, with the natural result that they are better in every way, both as to art and decoration.

On all other lines the demand is most gratifying and when the season of 1901 has ended a great many of the warehouses will be relieved of most of their more-desirable lines.

In many of the plants new and artistic shapes have been placed upon the market during the past few months, and others are under way.

At the Globe a new design has been adopted in the shape of a dinner set. The line is almost ready for the market, and great things are expected from it.

A great deal of time is being devoted to the arrangement of sample rooms by many of the firms. In some cases plants that have never before felt the need of an elaborately arranged sample room have determined to devote a large portion of their floor space to this feature.

At the Knowles, Taylor & Knowles plant an especial effort is being made to have its sample room second to none in the west. It is expected that the room will be ready for occupancy within the next ten days. Many of the companies have come to realize that a well stocked sample room attractively arranged goes a great way toward inducing the buyers to look over their stock.

The manufacturers have been informed that the Union Transit company today closed lake shipments and on the 26th the Northern Steamship company will close its lake trade. No more shipments for lake ports will be received at the local freight office after Monday.

The past week has been an unusually quiet one in Brotherhood circles, and but few matters of importance have transpired demanding the attention of either the national officials or the arbitration board.

The disputes at the New Castle pottery were taken up by the arbitration board on Tuesday night. It was thought by many of the operatives that no little difficulty would be experienced in this matter, as, at the time the disagreement arose it was not known that the owners of the plant were members of the Western Manufacturers' association, and for that reason might not be willing to place the matter in dispute with the standing committee. They were wrong, however, as the New Castle management was the first party to the dispute who asked that the affair be handled by the arbitration board. The result of the meeting of the board this week is particularly gratifying to the potters generally, as more progress was made than was thought possible. All but two of the six or seven points were settled satisfactorily.

Although several changes have been made in the personnel of the manufacturers' representation in the standing committee, the work accomplished by it during the past few months has been of incalculable benefit to both manufacturers and workmen. Disputes have been settled and prices fixed through the efforts of this board which could not have been brought about by any other influence.

One of the best examples of the determination of the Brotherhood officials to adhere to the agreement entered into last spring, which called for all disagreements going before that body, was illustrated a few days ago when the potters at the East Liverpool pottery went on strike without authority.

The employees, eight in number, objected to the firm placing a slipmaker on the job who was not a member of the Brotherhood. The clay hands left their benches and called at Brotherhood headquarters, where they were severely censured for the rash action. They were told to return to work and meantime an investigation would be made.

This disposition on the part of the headquarters officials has been instrumental in obviating the possibility of trouble and inconvenience to the various firms of the city, and is commendable.

A report has been in circulation during the week which says East Liverpool is to have another labor paper. From what could be gathered in consulting the knowing ones the new enterprise is to be devoted to the interests of the pottery workers in particular and all other trades unions generally. The editorial department will be in charge of an individual having had several years' experience in dealing with potting matters, while at least two others connected with the enterprise are practical potters. Should the rumor be true it is difficult to figure how two journals of the same identical character expect to long survive in the one community.

Charles Brookes, a jiggerman at Thompson's while running through the shop this morning, tripped on a board and received a bad fall. His right arm and leg were badly scratched.

The break in the water main on Walnut street was the cause of the entire C. C. Thompson plant loafing today.

WILL RAYL

Will Probably Be a Member of the Philadelphia Football Team.

Homestead men have received information that Dr. W. L. Rayl, who played with the D. C. & A. C. eleven last year, had been engaged by the Philadelphia professional team to play tackle in the game against Homestead a week from Saturday. This news was brought to Pittsburg by a Philadelphia traveling man, and the members of the Homestead team will not be surprised to find the doctor in the lineup in the Philadelphia game. Rayl is a powerful fellow and a very fast mar, for his immense bulk. In condition he is a sure ground-gainer, while on the defensive he can bring an opponent to the ground with great force.

In condition the doctor will be a valuable man for the team in Philadelphia, but it takes considerable hard work for him to round into playing form. So far as known here he has not played any foot ball this year, and if he intends playing in the Philadelphia game this year it will be necessary for him to get a hustle on to be in condition.

Dr. Rayl is a former Wellsville boy and is very well known in this city.

James Wilson, a Kilndrawer, Consults the Mayor Concerning a Divorce.

SAYS HIS WIFE SHOOK HIM

And the Allegation is Made That She is Receiving the Attention of Another Man—A West End Couple That Can't Agree.

Angered and humiliated because of the alleged wrongful conduct of his wife, James Wilson, a kiln drawer, residing in the West End, appeared at Mayor's Davidson's office this morning in quest of information as to how best to proceed to obtain a divorce.

While the mayor in such cases usually acts as mediator and tries to adjust difficulties, he could not help agreeing with Wilson—if that worthy told the truth—that he had reason for wishing to be legally separated from his wife.

Wilson says that Mrs. Wilson has "gone back" on him, and that she is bestowing her affections on one Andrew Call, who lives in a shanty boat near the flint mill. He also said that Mrs. Wilson had told him on one or two occasions that she was his "better" and that he was no match for her.

"It's mighty tough," said Wilson to the mayor, "to have a wife who looks on you as a lobster and who will take your hard earned cash and go out and 'blow herself,' while you sit at home sucking your thumb and watching the tea kettle boil. The last time I gave my wife money she grabbed it up greedily and then told me I could take a run and jump for myself."

A few weeks ago Wilson went to Steubenville to work. He says that during his absence Mrs. Wilson applied to Trustee Albright for assistance, claiming she was without bread, and that even the pie was about all in. The couple have two children and Wilson said he intends to take them both and send them to the Fairmount home.

He told a long story to the mayor and made many serious allegations against his wife. He said he had been advised to give Andy Call a good thrashing, but didn't do so because Andy wasn't familiar with the Queensberry rules.

NASH CONSENTED TO MAKE ADDRESS

Will Deliver Dedictory Speech of the McKinley Building At Massillon.

SEC'Y. LAYLIN'S REPORT

Will Show the Present Fiscal Year to Be Best in Ohio's History—Statement of State's Expense of Late President's Funeral.

Columbus, November 16.—(Special)—Governor Nash has consented to be present and deliver an address at the dedication of the McKinley building at the Massillon state hospital. The date originally fixed for the event was December 3, but owing to the fact that the building will not be ready for occupancy at that time the dedication will not take place until about three weeks later. The building was originally designed and the foundations laid with the intention of making it an administration hall, but remonstrance was made against the expenditure of $200,000, which would have been required for the project; so the plans were changed and made to provide for the erection of a smaller structure, combining an amusement hall, chapel, superintendent's residence and other general utility apartments. This is the building which is to bear the name of the late lamented president. The Massillon state hospital was projected and established during the period McKinley served as governor, and the appointment of the first board of trustees of the institution was one of his official acts. Mr. McKinley took a deep interest in the affairs of the hospital and the trustees feel that it is especially befitting that one of its additions should bear his name.

As has been announced by press dispatches State Treasurer I. B. Cameron, of Columbus; G. V. Sharp, of Salem; R. N. Chamberlin, of East Palestine, and P. J. Gilbert, of Sharon, Pa., have purchased the controlling interest of the York Wall Paper company, of York, Pa. The deal was closed Wednesday night. Officers were elected and Mr. Cameron was made treasurer. The company was organized under the laws of Pennsylvania with $200,000 capital stock and has been in existence six years. The plant has a capacity of between eight and nine million rolls a year and gives employment to about 100 hands. There is an abundance of orders on hand and it is proposed to operate the plant steadily. The minority stockholders reside in York and vicinity. G. V. Sharp has been in the employ of the company as traveling salesman for some years.

Secretary of State L. C. Laylin's annual report will be issued in a few days and will show that the present fiscal year to be the best in the history of the state. This year's receipts amounted to $236,629.41 as against $134,025.41 for last year. This year's receipts exceed by $25,000 those of any previous year. The capital stock of incorporations authorized during the year reaches about $135,000,000 and the increase in capital stock of old companies, $79,305,500. The number of manufacturing concerns incorporated is 550 and the capital stock $40,000,000. Old manufacturing companies increased their capital stock $15,000,000. Sixty-one banking and savings companies incorporated during the year.

The fiscal year closed Friday and returns were made as follows with the state treasurer: Auditor of State Guilbert, excise tax, $142,340, making a total of $605,940 for the year; Warden Darby, Ohio penitentiary, miscellaneous receipts, $24,584.60; receipts from support of United States prisoners, $12,964.11; Secretary of State L. C. Laylin, fees collected, $49,658.37; Dairy and Food Commissioner J. C. Blackburn, $5,523.55.

A statement of the expense incurred by the state in connection with the funeral of President McKinley has been formulated in the office of the adjutant general. The state emergency board appropriated $75,000 for this purpose, but there will be considerable of a residue, as the total expense will not exceed $60,000. The per diem of the Guard at Canton was $38,767.31. The cost of draping the state house was $1,058.86. The quartermaster's account will reach almost $3,324.56 and the commissary's account about $5,134.02. The total exclusive of transportation, which will amount to $12,000 or $15,000, is $58,344.55.

John R. Malloy, inspector of oils for the second district, filed his annual report with Governor Nash Thursday afternoon. It shows that during the year 233,162 barrels of oil were inspected in the district on which fees amounting to $11,873.32 were collected. Of the oil tested 160,802 barrels were refined and manufactured in Ohio, 45,910 barrels in Pennsylvania, 26,238 barrels in West Virginia and 312 barrels in New York. Deputy Robert Lover, of the Steubenville district, inspected 19,334 barrels and turned in $1,157.67 in fees.

Judge Frank E. Dellenbaugh, one of the common pleas judges in Cuyahoga county, has tendered his resignation to Governor Nash. His term expires next April, when a Democratic judge-elect will succeed to the vacancy. Judge Dellenbaugh and State Senator Vernon H. Burke were disbarred for unprofessional conduct, but the judge declined to vacate his place on the bench.

It is reported that Major Fred S. Marquis, of Mansfield, of the Eighth regiment, is conducting a remarkable revival at Warsaw, Ind. The saloonkeepers have closed their doors and attended services and the city is in such a fervor of religious excitement that every saloon may be closed.

A pension of $6 per month has been granted to Frank T. Hale, of East Liverpool, who was a member of Company E, Eighth regiment, during the Spanish war. The Cuban campaign affected his health. Quite a number of Eighth regiment boys are drawing pensions.

Grand Secretary Lyman, of the I. O. O. F., has received a letter stating that the Odd Fellows lodges in Stark county have been imposed upon by A. S. Ellis, who claimed membership in Craneville lodge, of Craneville, W. Va.

DELIGHTFUL TIME

WAS HAD AT THE G. A. R. POST HEADQUARTERS.

Women's Relief Corps Tendered the Old Soldiers a Reception.

The hall of the General Lyon post, G. A. R., was the scene of a pleasant event last night, when the members of the Women's Relief Corps tendered a reception to the old soldiers and Sons of Veterans in honor of Mrs. Courtney, an inspecting officer of Salem.

It was the intention of the ladies to treat the members of the Grand Army post to a surprise—and it was certainly a most agreeable surprise. Not until a late hour did the reception come to a close, and every one present enjoyed to the fullest limit the many pleasantries of the occasion.

Past Commander Dr. J. A. Myers took the program in charge, and aside from good speeches and music, refreshments of a tempting nature, claimed a goodly share of attention. Mrs. Courtney made a pleasing address. She gave a history of the work she is engaged in and closed by saying that the General Lyon corps was in the best working order and better situated financially than ever visited by her this year.

Following Mrs. Courtney's address, music was rendered by the McLane quartet and Miss Steinberger, which was of a high order and extremely pleasing. Speeches were then made by N. A. Frederick, Mrs. Lewis Calhoun and F. H. Croxall, after which a feast was spread, consisting of coffee, sandwiches, ice cream and cake. Social conversation then claimed attention and continued until the close of the evening's entertainment.

The old soldiers are unsparring in their praise of the manner in which the reception was conducted.

And Even Jeffries Was Amazed at His Opponent's Easy Defeat—Vanquished Man Plays the Baby Act And Intimates He Was Fouled.

San Francisco, November 15.—In one of the most unsatisfactory prize fights ever witnessed in this country James J. Jeffries proved the victor over Gus Ruhlin, the Akron giant.

In the fifth round of what was to have been a 20-round struggle Ruhlin wilted and then surrendered to his peer to the utter amazement and disgust of the assembled thousands.

No one was more surprised at the outcome than Jeffries himself, who asserted that while he had delivered one telling blow in the second round he did not expect to win the victory so easily.

Ruhlin's sole explanation of the outcome of the fight is that he received a chance blow which utterly disabled him, and that Jeffries persisted in fighting him low.

While Ruhlin will make no positive charge of Jeffries having committed a foul, he intimates that he was unfairly handled and injured as a result. Ruhlin receives the support of his seconds in this stand, who say that his was a hopeless case after the second round.

The fight took place at the Mechanics' pavilion before an assemblage of 10,000 people.

There is an abundance of orders on hand and it is proposed to operate the plant steadily. The minority stockholders reside in York and vicinity. G. V. Sharp has been in the employ of the company as traveling salesman for some years.

Secretary of State L. C. Laylin's annual report will be issued in a few days and will show that the present fiscal year to be the best in the history of the state. This year's receipts amounted to $236,629.41 as against $134,025.41 for last year. This year's receipts exceed by $25,000 those of any previous year. The capital stock of incorporations authorized during the year reaches about $135,000,000 and the increase in capital stock of old companies, $79,305,500. The number of manufacturing concerns incorporated is 550 and the capital stock $40,000,000. Old manufacturing companies increased their capital stock $15,000,000. Sixty-one banking and savings companies incorporated during the year.

The fiscal year closed Friday and returns were made as follows with the state treasurer: Auditor of State Guilbert, excise tax, $142,340, making a total of $605,940 for the year; Warden Darby, Ohio penitentiary, miscellaneous receipts, $24,584.60; receipts from support of United States prisoners, $12,964.11; Secretary of State L. C. Laylin, fees collected, $49,658.37; Dairy and Food Commissioner J. C. Blackburn, $5,523.55.

A statement of the expense incurred by the state in connection with the funeral of President McKinley has been formulated in the office of the adjutant general. The state emergency board appropriated $75,000 for this purpose, but there will be considerable of a residue, as the total expense will not exceed $60,000. The per diem of the Guard at Canton was $38,767.31. The cost of draping the state house was $1,058.86. The quartermaster's account will reach almost $3,324.56 and the commissary's account about $5,134.02. The total exclusive of transportation, which will amount to $12,000 or $15,000, is $58,344.55.

John R. Malloy, inspector of oils for the second district, filed his annual report with Governor Nash Thursday afternoon. It shows that during the year 233,162 barrels of oil were inspected in the district on which fees amounting to $11,873.32 were collected. Of the oil tested 160,802 barrels were refined and manufactured in Ohio, 45,910 barrels in Pennsylvania, 26,238 barrels in West Virginia and 312 barrels in New York. Deputy Robert Lover, of the Steubenville district, inspected 19,334 barrels and turned in $1,157.67 in fees.

Judge Frank E. Dellenbaugh, one of the common pleas judges in Cuyahoga county, has tendered his resignation to Governor Nash. His term expires next April, when a Democratic Judge-elect will succeed to the vacancy. Judge Dellenbaugh and State Senator Vernon H. Burke were disbarred for unprofessional conduct, but the judge declined to vacate his place on the bench.

It is reported that Major Fred S. Marquis, of Mansfield, of the Eighth regiment, is conducting a remarkable revival at Warsaw, Ind. The saloonkeepers have closed their doors and attended services and the city is in such a fervor of religious excitement that every saloon may be closed.

A pension of $6 per month has been granted to Frank T. Hale, of East Liverpool, who was a member of Company E, Eighth regiment, during the Spanish war. The Cuban campaign affected his health. Quite a number of Eighth regiment boys are drawing pensions.

Grand Secretary Lyman, of the I. O. O. F., has received a letter stating that the Odd Fellows lodges in Stark county have been imposed upon by A. S. Ellis, who claimed membership in Craneville lodge, of Craneville, W. Va.

DELIGHTFUL TIME

WAS HAD AT THE G. A. R. POST HEADQUARTERS.

Women's Relief Corps Tendered the Old Soldiers a Reception.

The hall of the General Lyon post, G. A. R., was the scene of a pleasant event last night, when the members of the Women's Relief Corps tendered a reception to the old soldiers and Sons of Veterans in honor of Mrs. Courtney, an inspecting officer of Salem.

It was the intention of the ladies to treat the members of the Grand Army post to a surprise—and it was certainly a most agreeable surprise. Not until a late hour did the reception come to a close, and every one present enjoyed to the fullest limit the many pleasantries of the occasion.

Past Commander Dr. J. A. Myers took the program in charge, and aside from good speeches and music, refreshments of a tempting nature, claimed a goodly share of attention.

Mrs. Courtney made a pleasing address. She gave a history of the work she is engaged in and closed by saying that the General Lyon corps was in the best working order and better situated financially than ever visited by her this year.

Following Mrs. Courtney's address, music was rendered by the McLane quartet and Miss Steinberger, which was of a high order and extremely pleasing. Speeches were then made by N. A. Frederick, Mrs. Lewis Calhoun and F. H. Croxall, after which a feast was spread, consisting of coffee, sandwiches, ice cream and cake.

Social conversation then claimed attention and continued until the close of the evening's entertainment.

The old soldiers are unsparing in their praise of the manner in which the reception was conducted.

MCNACA BANK ROBBED

Burglars Wrecked a Large Safe And Carried Off $3,000 in Money.

Monaca, Pa., November 16.—The Monaca National bank, which began business last April, was last night robbed by burglars.

In addition to carrying off a sum of money estimated at $3,000, they wrecked the large safe, damaged part of the office fixtures and mutilated paper, silver and gold money to the extent of probably $5,000.

RUHLIN WHIPPED WITH GREAT EASE

At the End of Five Rounds He Showed the White Feather and Quit.

SPECTATORS DISGUSTED

And Even Jeffries Was Amazed at His Opponent's Easy Defeat — Vanquished Man Plays the Baby Act And Intimates He Was Foul.

San Francisco, November 15 — In one of the most unsatisfactory prize fights ever witnessed in this country James J. Jeffries proved the victor over Gus Ruhlin, the Akron giant.

In the fifth round of what was to have been a 20-round struggle Ruhlin wilted and then surrendered to his peer to the utter amazement and disgust of the assembled thousands.

No one was more surprised at the outcome than Jeffries himself, who asserted that while he had delivered one telling blow in the second round he did not expect to win the victory so easily.

Ruhlin's sole explanation of the outcome of the fight is that he received a chance blow which utterly disabled him, and that Jeffries persisted in fighting him low.

While Ruhlin will make no positive charge of Jeffries having committed a foul, he intimates that he was unfairly handled and injured as a result. Ruhlin receives the support of his seconds in this stand, who say that his was a hopeless case after the second round.

The fight took place at the Mechanics' pavilion before an assemblage of 10,000 people.

HUNTERS ASSOCIATION

St. Clair Township Farmers Take Steps to Protect Their Farms.

Calcutta, Nov. 15.—At a meeting of St. Clair township farmers an anti-hunters association was formed, and the following permanent officers were elected: President, Thomas Huston; secretary, Emmett N. Hickman; treasurer, S. J. Calvin; executive committee, J. C. McIntosh, Thomas Toland, E. E. Birch, J. E. Smith, Carl Fisher, D. J. Smith, Frank Faulk, Newton Trumble, Thomas S. Moore.

A resolution was passed directing the officers and executive committee of the association to prosecute all persons trespassing on properties owned or controlled by citizens of St. Clair township, in violation of section 6966 of the revised statutes of Ohio which reads as follows:

"Whoever, without first receiving written permission from the owner, his agent, or person having control of any lands, pond or lake, or other private waters, except the waters claimed by riparian right of ownership of adjacent lands, hunts upon the same or thereon hunts, shoots or shoots at, kills or pursue with intent to kill or capture the virginia partridge, quail, pheasant, prairie chicken, ruffed grouse, blue winged teal, mallard duck, woodcock, squirrel, rabbit, wild turkey, robins, doves, or any other bird or wild animal or game of any kind, or destroys the eggs or nest of any such bird or fowl, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof, for the first offense, fined not less than five nor more than fifteen dollars, and stand committed until such fine and cost of suit are paid, and any person convicted for second offense committed within a year from time of first offense, shall be fined not less than five nor more than fifteen dollars, and stand committed until such fine and cost are paid.

On motion the executive committee was authorized to raise from the membership all funds necessary to execute the law upon trespassers.

MYSTERIOUSLY MISSING

Winona Man Suddenly Departs From His Home, Leaving No Explanation.

Salem, November 16.—William Cowan, aged 55, residing near Winona, has been missing since early last Sunday morning, and his friends are concerned regarding his whereabouts and welfare.

On Sunday morning he arose early, telling his wife that he would light the fire in the kitchen stove and that she need be in no hurry to leave her bed.

When Mrs. Cowan arose a short while later she discovered that the fire had not been lighted. She then began searching the premises for her husband, but he could not be found, and no trace of him has since been found, neither has any word been received from him.

No reason can be assigned for Mr. Cowan's sudden departure from home. Mr. and Mrs. Cowan have no children, and the relations of the pair are said to be harmonious.

SENSATIONAL CASE

A Young Husband, Seeking a Divorce at Cadiz, Said He Was Forced to Marry.

Cadiz, November 16.—A rather sensational divorce case was heard in the common pleas court Thursday. Alonzo Tipton, aged 22, alleged that his marriage to Miss Minnie Kolson was the result of threats to imprison him for the alleged parental charge preferred by the woman.

Tipton said he never kept company with the girl and escorted her home from church but twice, but that she was jealous of another young lady he was going with and took this plan for revenge. They have never lived together. No child was born and other witnesses substantiated young Tipton's story.

The case attracted much attention and is considered a remarkable affair.

UNIONS GET TOGETHER

Trades And Labor Council Organized at Salem—A Potter Elected President.

The Waiter Was Wise.

"I'll give that waiter," said Rivers, "an order that will paralyze him."

"What will you have, sir?" presently asked the waiter.

"Bring me," replied Rivers, "some verum and ova."

"Yes, sir."

The waiter, a seedy looking man in spectacles, went away with a strange gleam in his eye and returned about fifteen minutes later with a large platter containing something hot.

"Here you are, sir," he said. "Bacon and eggs. In ordinary English it would be twenty-five cents. In classic form it will be forty-five cents. Culpan pana premit cones, as we used to say at college. Anything else, sir?"—Chicago Tribune.

ADMIRAL DEWEY'S LUNCH.

Carries It With Him While Sitting on Court of Inquiry.

Admiral Dewey carries his lunch every day to the navy yard, where the Schley court of inquiry is sitting, says the Washington correspondent of the Chicago News. There is not a decent luncheon within a radius of a mile of the navy yard, and the admiral evidently was aware of this fact in advance, for on the first day of the inquiry he hurried into the gunners' workshop, jauntily carrying his little lunch basket, while Ah Lin, his Chinese servant, followed close behind, tugging at the suit case that contained the admiral's uniform. Ah Lin and the suit case monopolized the attention that day. The crowd did not catch on to all the fine points of the diminutive basket that the hero of Manila carried. Now the arrival of the basket is watched for as eagerly as is that of the head of the court of inquiry himself.

The basket is of the finest Filipino weave and of a peculiar light green color that makes it look seasick when contrasted with the white walls and woodwork of the chamber in which the sessions are held. It is always carefully wrapped with ribbon of that particular size and color that the dry goods clerk hands out when asked for "baby ribbon."

When the court makes its midday adjournment, the admiral hurries into the retiring room in the rear of the court, balances the basket on his knees and patiently unwinds the narrow blue ribbon. After he finishes his luncheon he as patiently wraps the ribbon around the basket again and pulls it carefully to his table. When his work is done for the day, he bears his lunch basket to his carriage, tenderly places it on the seat beside him and drives out of the navy yard. The crowd enjoys the beribboned lunch basket almost as much as the admiral appears to enjoy its contents, but so far as can be ascertained no one has had the temerity to chaff him about it, although it is well known that the admiral enjoys a joke.

Lieutenant Bains' Career.

Lieutenant Thomas M. Bains, Jr., of the Ninth United States Infantry, whose vigilance at Caribga, island of Samar, forestalled a massacre of the garrison, is a son of Thomas M. Bains of Oak Lane, Pa. Lieutenant Bains was born in Philadelphia Dec. 28, 1877, and was graduated from the Friends' Central school in 1895. He then went to Cornell for a year. At the outbreak of the Spanish-American war he enlisted in Battery E, Sixth artillery, and was with the siege train at Tampa, Fla. He remained there until the close of the war and in April, 1899, went with his command to the Philippines, having been made a sergeant. At Manila he was quartermaster sergeant and on July 25, 1899, was appointed a second lieutenant and was assigned to the Ninth Infantry in China. On June 1 of this year he returned to Manila and acted as assistant custodian of Aguinaldo. On Aug. 15 the battalion was ordered to Samar.

Living on a Pittance.

It is seriously contended before the supreme court of New York state that $6,000 a year is the smallest sum on which a young man ought to be asked to live—simply because his father happened to be rich. Yet the average yearly income of the higher general officers of our great railroads is but $3,650.—New York World.

St. Clair Township Farmers Take Steps to Protect Their Farms.

Calcutta, Nov. 15.—At a meeting of St. Clair township farmers an anti-hunters association was formed, and the following permanent officers were elected: President, Thomas Huston; secretary, Emmett N. Hickman; treasurer, S. J. Calvin; executive committee, J. C. McIntosh, Thomas Toland, E. E. Birch, J. E. Smith, Carl Fisher, D. J. Smith, Frank Faulk, Newton Trumble, Thomas S. Moore.

A resolution was passed directing the officers and executive committee of the association to prosecute all persons trespassing on properties owned or controlled by citizens of St. Clair township, in violation of section 6966 of the revised statutes of Ohio which reads as follows:

"Whoever, without first receiving written permission from the owner, his agent, or person having control of any lands, pond or lake, or other private waters, except the waters claimed by riparian right of ownership of adjacent lands, hunts upon the same or thereon hunts, shoots or shoots at, kills or pursues with intent to kill or capture the virginia partridge, quail, pheasant, prairie chicken, ruffed grouse, blue winged teal, mallard duck, woodcock, squirrel, rabbit, wild turkey, robins, doves, or any other bird or wild animal or game of any kind, or destroys the eggs or nest of any such bird or fowl, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof, for the first offense, fined not less than five nor more than fifteen dollars, and stand committed until such fine and cost of suit are paid, and any person convicted for second offense committed within a year from time of first offense, shall be fined not less than five nor more than fifteen dollars, and stand committed until such fine and cost are paid.

On motion the executive committee was authorized to raise from the membership all funds necessary to execute the law upon trespassers.

MYSTERIOUSLY MISSING

Winona Man Suddenly Departs From His Home, Leaving No Explanation.

Salem, November 16.—William Cowan, aged 55, residing near Winona, has been missing since early last Sunday morning, and his friends are concerned regarding his whereabouts and welfare.

On Sunday morning he arose early, telling his wife that he would light the fire in the kitchen stove and that she need be in no hurry to leave her bed.

When Mrs. Cowan arose a short while later she discovered that the fire had not been lighted. She then began searching the premises for her husband, but he could not be found, and no trace of him has since been found, neither has any word been received from him.

No reason can be assigned for Mr. Cowan's sudden departure from home. Mr. and Mrs. Cowan have no children, and the relations of the pair are said to be harmonious.

SENSATIONAL CASE

A Young Husband, Seeking a Divorce at Cadiz, Said He Was Forced to Marry.

Cadiz, November 16.—A rather sensational divorce case was heard in the common pleas court Thursday. Alonzo Tipton, aged 22, alleged that his marriage to Miss Minnie Kolson was the result of threats to imprison him for the alleged parental charge preferred by the woman.

Tipton said he never kept company with the girl and escorted her home from church but twice, but that she was jealous of another young lady he was going with and took this plan for revenge. They have never lived together. No child was born and other witnesses substantiated young Tipton's story.

The case attracted much attention and is considered a remarkable affair.

UNIONS GET TOGETHER

Trades And Labor Council Organized at Salem—A Potter Elected President.

Salem, Nov. 16.—A Trades and Labor Assembly was organized in this city last night at a very enthusiastic meeting of the union laboring men.

There were 13 delegates present at the meeting. They represented the two local molders' unions, the potters' union, the miners' union and the retail clerks' union.

The body organized as a Trades Council by electing Elmer Apple, of Potters' union No. 4, as president.

GLASGOW

Glasgow, Nov. 15.—R. G. Letherbery sold his fine team of horses to Steve Ridinger, of Wellsville.

John Burnett had his thumb amputated Monday, the result of a felon. Drs. Holland and Hutchinson performed the operation.

Mr. and Mrs. L. I. Martin visited Mrs. Martin's folks recently.

Miss Verna Welch and brother, Roy, of Liverpool, visited at the home of William McMillan lately.

Miss Bertha Noble and Miss Anna Orr are visiting friends in Liverpool. Miss May Wilcox entertained a select party of friends Tuesday evening.

Quite a number attended the dance at the home of S. McEntire.

A. C. McIntosh spent two days in Pittsburgh this week.

ADMIRAL DEWEY'S LUNCH.

Carries It With Him While Sitting on Court of Inquiry.

Admiral Dewey carries his lunch every day to the navy yard, where the Schley court of inquiry is sitting, says the Washington correspondent of the Chicago News. There is not a decent lunchroom within a radius of a mile of the navy yard, and the admiral evidently was aware of this fact in advance, for on the first day of the inquiry he hurried into the gunners' workshop, jauntily carrying his little lunch basket, while Ah Lin, his Chinese servant, followed close behind, tugging at the suit case that contained the admiral's uniform. Ah Lin and the suit case monopolized the attention that day. The crowd did not catch on to all the fine points of the diminutive basket that the hero of Manila carried. Now the arrival of the basket is watched for as eagerly as is that of the head of the court of inquiry himself.

The basket is of the finest Filipino weave and of a peculiar light green color that makes it look seakick when contrasted with the white walls and woodwork of the chamber in which the sessions are held. It is always carefully wrapped with ribbon of that particular size and color that the dry goods clerk hands out when asked for "baby ribbon."

When the court makes its midday adjournment, the admiral hurries into the retiring room in the rear of the court, balances the basket on his knees and patiently unwinds the narrow blue ribbon. After he finishes his luncheon he as patiently wraps the ribbon around the basket again and pulls it carefully on his table. When his work is done for the day, he bears his lunch basket to his carriage, tenderly places it on the seat beside him and drives out of the navy yard. The crowd enjoys the beribboned lunch basket almost as much as the admiral appears to enjoy its contents, but so far as can be ascertained no one has had the temerity to chaff him about it, although it is well known that the admiral enjoys a joke.

Lieutenant Bains' Career.

Lieutenant Thomas M. Bains, Jr., of the Ninth United States Infantry, whose vigilance at Carbiga, island of Samar, forestalled a massacre of the garrison, is a son of Thomas M. Bains of Oak Lane, Pa. Lieutenant Bains was born in Philadelphia Dec. 28, 1877, and was graduated from the Friends' Central school in 1895. He then went to Cornell for a year. At the outbreak of the Spanish-American war he enlisted in Battery E, Sixth artillery, and was with the siege train at Tampa, Fla. He remained there until the close of the war and in April, 1899, went with his command to the Philippines, having been made a sergeant. At Manila he was quartermaster sergeant and on July 25, 1899, was appointed a second lieutenant and assigned to the Ninth Infantry in China. On June 1 of this year he returned to Manila and acted as assistant custodian of Aguinaldo. On Aug. 15 the battalion was ordered to Samar.

It is seriously contended before the supreme court of New York state that $6,000 a year is the smallest sum on which a young man ought to be asked to live—simply because his father happened to be rich. Yet the average yearly income of the higher general officers of our great railroads is but $3,650.—New York World.

BOUNDARY LINE SURVEY

Commissioners From Washington Conclude Their Work.

THEY SUFFERED MANY HARDSHIPS

The Line Between Canadian Dominion and the United States in Alaska—Many New Goldfields May Be Opened—Surveyors Are Silent Regarding Rich Finds Lately Reported.

The surveyors who have just reached Washington from a survey of the boundary line between Canada and the United States, known as the northwest boundary, says the Washington correspondent of the Chicago Tribune, refuse to give the slightest confirmation to the glowing reports of great gold finds of the British surveyors, who covered the territory with them, and will say nothing more than that active mining operations are in progress along this line. It is known, however, that it was the rapidly increasing discoveries of precious minerals along this line that prompted the state department to expedite the work of locating the boundary.

This line was established by a commission in 1856, and while there is no question of the correctness of the location, generally speaking, the great difficulties encountered in that early day made it impossible to locate the monuments close enough together to be of value in some districts.

There are intervals of thirteen miles at some points in question where a miner cannot determine upon which side of the line he is working or locating a claim. This confusion among the miners was brought to the attention of the state department, and the chief of the geological survey and the chief of the coast survey were asked to put parties on the work last spring.

The journey of the surveyors along the boundary line was full of perils and many times equaled those of the Klondike trail. E. C. Barnard, a Columbia college man, headed the party for the geological survey as topographer, having as his assistant Horace Dunaway. C. H. Sinclair, assisted by

Bon Ami

Contains no acid or alkali to injure the hands or surfaces.

H. F. Flynn, took the astronomical observations for the coast and geodetic survey.

The surveyors equipped their party at Seattle and at once proceeded to Chilliack, B. C. From this point they took a pack train of thirty animals and made a most hazardous journey over a rough trail to Silicia creek, a point in question on the boundary line.

While en route from Chilliack to Silicia creek the mountain passes were so narrow and slippery from constant rain that eight or ten of the horses rolled down an incline of 100 feet, but with no more disastrous result than rumpling their coats.

At Silicia creek the party found the old astronomical post used by the commission in 1856. With his instruments upon this now historic post Mr. Sinclair made his present observations. Uncertainty existed as to the boundary at this point, and some disputes arose among miners. The party determined that the uncertainty arose from the miners mistaking the astronomical post for a monument on the line.

After diligent search by the party in this vicinity the old monument was discovered 3,500 feet to the north and identified by the date cut in the stone. These monuments along the line were all built by placing stones in pyramid shape and were carefully constructed, most of them being in a fine state of preservation. The one at Silicia was partly obliterated by snowslides and the fallen timbers. Here the snow was down to about 2,000 feet above the valley, while the whole section of country was rough and perilous, the party passing over living glaciers in pursuing the trail.

During the month of June the party was perpetually soaked, having been in twenty-two days of rain. From Silicia creek the government party took the Canadian Pacific road to Midway, a distance of 135 miles, another point of uncertainty as to the boundary line.

The weather was fine during July and August at this point, and the men were able to make good speed. At Midway uncertainty arose from the fact of two lines having been run by the old commission, an astronomical line which had been cut out and a final line agreed upon by the commission, along which the monuments had been erected.

Many of the residents took the vista cut through the woods for the actual line. Here the party cut out the line and mapped the country for two miles on either side.

From Midway to the famous Tobacco Plains district the party again traveled by railway, and thence to Phillips. At this point was found a monument from which to take observation, and then the party proceeded to another disputed point at Wigwam creek, where the next monument was located. From Wigwam creek for a distance of thirteen miles the district had never been surveyed. The line was located, cut out and iron posts put at intervals of two or three miles along the boundary.

The history of the journey of this government party from Phillips to Wigwam reads like an old Klondike story. On two occasions the members of the party were separated from their pack train and did not know but they were eating their last meal. The trail along Wigwam valley took them over a route of twenty-five miles, which they were five days in making. The snow capped summits reached 8,000 feet above them, and a terrible storm raged the entire time.

Great trees, many of them 250 feet high, fell about the surveyors and over their pathway, while several narrow escapes were had. While in camp at Wigwam creek one of these giant monsters fell across the camp, barely missing several of the men and demolishing part of the camp.

Amid ice and snow and rain, over almost unbroken trails, this party of men succeeded in covering all but 150 miles, which is yet to be traced. The work had to be abandoned for the season on account of the weather, as the course lay through dense forests and along mountain passes. This, however, is a highly valuable mining district, both on the Canadian and United States sides of the line.

In the Flathead district oil was discovered, and wells are being sunk and developments rapidly pushed onward.

Youngster Saves the Baby.

Willie Nicholas, three years old, owes his life to the rare presence of mind of his six-year-old playmate, Walter Gilbert, says a dispatch from Scranton, Pa. The two children were playing when the dress of Willie burst into flames by coming in contact with a small bonfire. Young Gilbert seized the burning boy and threw him into a mud puddle. Then, unassisted, he rolled the boy in the mud until the flames were extinguished.

Crusade Against Trailing Skirts.

The war against trailing skirts as a means of communication of diseases is carried on with vigor in Germany. Thus, at Ems the authorities have put up a notice that no long skirts are to be admitted within the precincts of the gardens, and the keeper excludes women whose skirts are in his opinion too long, while outside of Dresden notices are posted on the trees that wearers of trailing skirts will be fined.

Jumped on a Ten-Penny Nail.

The little daughter of Mr. J. N. Powell jumped on an inverted rake made of ten penny nails, and thrust one nail entirely through her foot and a second one half way through. Chamberlain's Pain Balm was promptly applied and five minutes later the pain had disappeared and no more suffering was experienced. In three days the child was wearing her shoe as usual and with absolutely no discomfort. Mr. Powell is a well known merchant of Forkland, Va. Pain Balm is an antiseptic and heals such injuries without maturation and in one-third the time required by the usual treatment. For sale by Alvin H. Bulger, druggist.

The one at Silicia was partly obliterated by snow-slides and the fallen timbers. Here the snow was down to about 2,000 feet above the valley, while the whole section of country was rough and perilous, the party passing over living glaciers in pursuing the trail.

During the month of June the party was perpetually soaked, having been in twenty-two days of rain. From Silicia creek the government party took the Canadian Pacific road to Midway, a distance of 135 miles, another point of uncertainty as to the boundary line.

The weather was fine during July and August at this point, and the men were able to make good speed. At Midway uncertainty arose from the fact of two lines having been run by the old commission, an astronomical line which had been cut out and a final line agreed upon by the commission, along which the monuments had been erected.

line. Here the party cut out the line and mapped the country for two miles on either side.

From Midway to the famous Tobacco Plains district the party again traveled by railway, and thence to Phillips. At this point was found a monument from which to take observation, and then the party proceeded to another disputed point at Wigwam creek, where the next monument was located. From Wigwam creek for a distance of thirteen miles the district had never been surveyed. The line was located, cut out and iron posts put at intervals of two or three miles along the boundary.

The history of the journey of this government party from Phillips to Wigwam reads like an old Klondike story. On two occasions the members of the party were separated from their pack train and did not know but they were eating their last meal. The trail along Wigwam valley took them over a route of twenty-five miles, which they were five days in making. The snow capped summits reached 8,000 feet above them, and a terrible storm raged the entire time.

Great trees, many of them 250 feet high, fell about the surveyors and over their pathway, while several narrow escapes were had. While in camp at Wigwam creek one of these giant monsters fell across the camp, barely missing several of the men and demolishing part of the camp.

Amid ice and snow and rain, over almost unbroken trails, this party of men succeeded in covering all but 150 miles, which is yet to be traced. The work had to be abandoned for the season on account of the weather, as the course lay through dense forests and along mountain passes. This, however, is a highly valuable mining district, both on the Canadian and United States sides of the line.

Youngster Saves the Baby.

Willie Nicholas, three years old, owes his life to the rare presence of mind of his six-year-old playmate, Walter Gilbert, says a dispatch from Scranton, Pa. The two children were playing when the dress of Willie burst into flames by coming in contact with a small bonfire. Young Gilbert seized the burning boy and threw him into a mud puddle. Then, unassisted, he rolled the boy in the mud until the flames were extinguished.

Crusade Against Trailing Skirts.

The war against trailing skirts as a means of communication of diseases is carried on with vigor in Germany. Thus, at Ems the authorities have put up a notice that no long skirts are to be admitted within the precincts of the gardens, and the keeper excludes women whose skirts are in his opinion too long, while outside of Dresden notices are posted on the trees that wearers of trailing skirts will be fined.

Jumped on a Ten-Penny Nail.

The little daughter of Mr. J. N. Powell jumped on an inverted rake made of ten penny nails, and thrust one nail entirely through her foot and a second one half way through. Chamberlain's Pain Balm was promptly applied and five minutes later the pain had disappeared and no more suffering was experienced. In three days the child was wearing her shoe as usual and with absolutely no discomfort. Mr. Powell is a well known merchant of Forkland, Va. Pain Balm is an antiseptic and heals such injuries without maturation and in one-third the time required by the usual treatment. For sale by Alvin H. Bulger, druggist.

INSURANCE

Uneasy lies the head of the man who is not insured.

To rest peacefully you need the consciousness that your property is protected by insurance that insures. During the past ten months 25 fire insurance companies have ceased doing business. Those that are retiring were the companies that were writing for a few cents less than the usual charge. Don't run the risk of having a policy which in event of loss may prove of no more value than a piece of waste paper. Our customers all rest peacefully.

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 16, 1901.

President Roosevelt has proved his
zeal for reciprocity in a most positive
and significant manner. To a delegation of the representatives of several important chambers of commerce who
called upon him recently, he said:
"While it would be manifestly improper for me to advocate a reciprocal treaty with any one country, I can assure you that every influence of my administration will be exerted toward
securing such treaties with the great
commercial nations of the world.

That the influence of the administration will be felt is certain from the character of its chief and responsible
director, and the opponents of any
tariff concessions will sooner or later
be broken to pieces between it and the people. Concessions must be made, and as President Roosevelt indicates, they must be to the great commercial nations if they are to have any value for ourselves.

John R. McLean, it is said, is booked for a campaign for governor or senator in 1903. This is rather good news for Republicans. Ohio can be carried without the aid which McLean's
candidacy would furnish, but the 10, 000 or 15,000 additional majority which
his participation in the canvass would give would be accepted.

President Kruger likes the arbitration idea, but he either wants to select the judges or to have it understood that he is not to be held strictly
to the decision the arbitrators may make. Oom Paul is a somewhat peculiar old gentleman.

Morgan's latest trust is merely an authority to do anything and every-

seems best to him to do, and New Jersey pocketed a fee of $80,000 for turning Mr. Morgan loose on the public again.

AT THE THEATER

Fred Raymond's latest melodramatic success, "Old Arkansas," will be given an elaborate production at the opera house next Wednesday night.
This play is full of dramatic action
from the raising of the first curtain
to the ending of the performance.
There is not one moment in which
the audience is not deeply interested.
The company presenting the play is all that could be desired. Each of the many characters in the play is in competent hands. The scenery and stage settings seen in this production are elaborate.

The wide range of society covered
by the plot of the new Russo-Siberian play, "For Her Sake," which is to be seen here November 19, ought
to furnish exceptional opportunity for scenic effect, and it is said that Lester & Co., who produce the piece, did not fail to profit by their chance. The company, it is stated, carries a carload of special scenery, all of which
was painted by artists who made a study of the scenes which it was aimed to produce. The piece is in four acts.

SNUBBED MISS CORELLI.

How an English Schoolmistress Re-
buked the Novelist.

A correspondent who has been visiting Shakespeare's town writes to Harper's Weekly that Miss Marie Corelli
figures by no means among the least of the local attractions at Stratford-on-Avon. She has quite a large establishment, and her carriage and coachmen
are much observed when she drives
about. The townspeople do not seem to take her very seriously. She is talked of as being "queer," a literary person whose ways are naturally a little unconventional.

When Miss Corelli made her home in Stratford-on-Avon, she was then at work on "The Master Christian," published last year. To her vexation, she found that the house next to hers was occupied as a private school. It appears that at a certain hour in the day,
when she was most engrossed in her
work, the classes would be up for calisthenics, and the disturbance became very annoying to Miss Corelli. She wrote to the schoolmistress and, informing her that she was at work on
a masterpiece of literature, which she hoped to give to the world in a few months, requested her to change the distracting hour of noisy exercise to
one that would be more convenient to
her. Miss Corelli received in effect the following reply by return:
"Dear Madam—I beg to remind you
that my school was here before you
made your home in this town and that I cannot change the hour of the exercises as you suggest, not even to further the important work upon which you are engaged. Indeed I may say that if your masterpiece is to be at all
like the works which you have already written anything I can do to prevent
as a blessing to the world."

It Jarred Him.

"Pleasant offices you have here," said
a policy holder who visited a life insurance office in the Postal Telegraph
building in New York to pay his premium. The windows overlook the City Hall park and the Nathan Hale statue.
"Yes," replied the insurance man,
"but the inscription on that Hale statue, patriotic and inspiring though it is,
strikes a discordant note in the soul of one who is underwriting risks on men's lives. Look at it—My only regret is that I have but one life to give in defense of my country."—New York Times.

Clara—Gracious! What was it?
Miss Maydeval—Why, on the back of
every picture were these words, "The original of this is carefully preserved."

His First Business Venture.

An American capitalist who has made a fortune running far into the millions likes to tell a story of his first
business venture and how he saddened
the local grocer. At this time he was fond of frequenting a public salesroom
near his home where all sorts of bargains were offered:
One day I noticed several boxes of soap of a certain brand which I had
often been sent to buy at the corner
grocery. I thought to myself, "That will go cheap," so I ran to the grocery
and received a promise from the man
in charge to buy as much of the soap
at a certain figure as I could furnish.
Of course he never suspected that I
could furnish any of it.

I returned to the salesroom, and when the soap was put up I bid it in,
and it was knocked down to me. My name was demanded, and when I gave
it in a shrill voice everybody laughed,
for I was then only eleven years of age.

Amused as they were at the sale, the bystanders were amazed when I bid in the whole lot of twenty-two boxes. I had them carried over to the grocery
and received the price agreed upon.
The grocer wore a weary look when he heard how I had obtained the soap.
He said:

"Well, I guess I could have done that myself."
I replied that I guessed he could, too,
but he hadn't.—Youth's Companion.

Man Who Named America.

Few Americans are aware of the fact
that the name of their continent is due to a German scholar. In 1507 Martin Waldseemüller, also known as Hylacomylus, of St. Die, in the Vosges,
edited a book called "Cosmographie Introductio," in which he gave a translation of Amerigo Vespucci's description of his voyages.

That was just the time when Ameri-
go's fame filled the world, while Columbus' disgrace overshadowed his merit,
and evidently his name had never
reached the quiet village in the Vosges
when Amerigo trumpeted forth his own glory. So Hylacomylus proposed that,
since the new continent was, after all,
not a part of the Indies, no name would suit it better than that of his famous explorer, Amerigo.

The book was read far and wide, and
so quickly was the proposition accepted
that, when later on the true discoverer
was known, the name was already rooted too deeply in general use to
be abolished, and was even extended
to the north part of the continent, while Hylacomylus had only meant it for the present South America.—National Geographic Magazine.

For Tired Eyes.

Eyes will be greatly strengthened by putting the face down into a glass or eyecup of water the first thing in the morning and opening them under water. This is somewhat difficult to do
at first, but if the water for two or three days be tepid and gradually made colder by imperceptible degrees until
it is no shock to put the face into quite cold water it will soon become quite easy and is very invigorating and refreshing.

If done regularly every day, this treatment alone will preserve the sight
into quite old age. There is a right
and wrong way of wiping the eyes
after this, too, and the right way is to pass the soft towel very gently from
the outer angle inward toward the nose.

If after a long day the eyes feel so
hot and tired that they seem dim when one tries to read or to do a little necessary sewing for oneself, they should be bathed with cold tea from which the leaves have been removed.

HUNTERS KILL CATTLE.

Stalking For Deer, They Slaughter
Farmer's Cows.

If John Henderson, a well known
farmer of Pleasant Valley, between Newburg and Cocheton, says a dispatch from Goshen, N. Y., can find a party of New York hunters who have been in his neighborhood, it will cost them money to get away, for they have killed all the cows upon his farm except one, and they wounded that one
severely in the leg.

The cows were undoubtedly shot under the impression that they were a herd of deer, as all were found lying dead in one pasture lot, three side by side and the other two some distance
away. They were found after a search of several days. Mr. Henderson is a man without a known enemy in the world.

Mr. Henderson is perfectly willing
that the hunters take the heads home
and have them mounted, but he cannot afford the loss and would like to be paid for the animals.

Evolution.

"He boasts very proudly that he's a self made man."
"I thought it was his money that made him."
"But, then, it was that machine he invented that made his money."
"Ah! Then he's really a 'machine made man.'"—Philadelphia Press.

MONEY KINGS' FEUD.

Battle Royal Between Keene and
Whitney Carried to Polls.

HOW THE QUARREL STARTED.

Why the Tammany Defeat in New York City Elated One and Depressed
the Other—Story of a Bitter Rivalry in Wall Street, on the Turf
and in Politics.

To James R. Keene the success of the fusion ticket at the late election in
New York came as a soothing balm,
says the New York Herald. To him
the overthrow of the Tammany organization signified mainly the discomfiture of William C. Whitney, who had espoused the Shepard cause and between whom and himself there exists
a feud in finance, in sport and in politics so bitter in its intensity that any cause championed by Mr. Whitney is sure to find an opponent in Mr. Keene.

Strange stories are told in Wall street
of the assistance rendered to the fusion candidates, and especially to Willam Travers Jerome, by Mr. Keene.
The well known operator is said to
have opened his purse on the very day
that Mr. Whitney declared for Shepard, and he is credited with generous
contributions to the campaign fund.

But, what is of more importance, Mr.
Keene is said to have aided Mr. Jerome with advice, given through mutual friends, and to have kept him informed concerning certain happenings
in which he believed the fusion candidate's interests were involved.

It transpires that friends of Mr.
Keene furnished Judge Jerome with
the information that Senator Platt and
Mr. Whitney had met in the office of Thomas F. Ryan, it was asserted, to plan his defeat and that Judge Jerome's attack on Platt and Whitney
was inspired from the same quarter.

Whatever part Mr. Keene may have played, his motives are easily traced by men in Wall street. It was said by those professing to know that the conference between Senator Platt and Mr.
Whitney had no direct bearing on Judge
Jerome's candidacy, but that Mr.
Keene's friends, recognizing in the candidate for district attorney an able ally,
concluded to array him against Mr.
Whitney by telling only half the truth.
At all events, Mr. Keene and his friends see in the result of the election
a personal triumph over Mr. Whitney
and his associates in the Metropolitan Street Railway company, and they rejoice accordingly.

Bad feeling between Mr. Keene and
Mr. Whitney was engendered in the spring of 1898, having its origin in Mr.
Keene's manipulation of Metropolitan
stock. At that time there was a pool
in this stock, and Mr. Keene was the field marshal of the traction forces on the floor of the Stock Exchange. He engineered a bull movement in the security, and on Feb. 14 Metropolitan touched 17 1/2. Suddenly and without warning that day a large quantity of the stock was thrown on the market,
and the price broke to 157.

It was seven months later that the real break in the relations of Mr.
Whitney and the pool manager occurred. This time there was no quibbling; charges of bad faith were made
on both sides and the foundation was laid for the feud, which has been
waged bitterly ever since.

For several months Mr. Keene had been manipulating the stock of the American Tobacco company, in which
Mr. Whitney and his friends were largely interested. Under his guidance quotations had been raised to an unprecedented level, and in the latter part of September, 1898, plans for controlling the tobacco industry of the country and executing a sensational
coup in the stock market were well
under way. Mr. Keene was the only member of the pool to figure openly in
this transaction.

Mr. Keene himself explained the situation in an interview published in
The Herald at the time.

"The defection of any one large holder of tobacco stock," he said, "would naturally produce serious consequences
in the market. When the most indubitable evidence was furnished to me that one or two members of the pool had sold I sold my stock, and did
it promptly, at between $145 and $136
a share."

Mr. Keene is said to have purchased
his stock—some forty thousand shares—
at approximately $87 a share, and his profits were estimated to be not far from 1,500,000. Mr. Whitney's brother-in-law, Oliver H. Payne, and Messrs.
Duke, Schley and Terrell, representing various interests, were seriously embarrassed by Mr. Keene's precipitate selling, which upset—for the time being at least—the ambitious plans of
the pool.

When taken to task by Mr. Whitney,
as the Wall street legend runs, Mr.
Keene is said to have puffed his cigar
nonchalantly and replied: "Why, certainly I sold. When I go into a race of this kind, I never permit myself to be

Whatever the facts may be it is certain that no quarter has been given in the battle royal in which these gladiators of finance have been engaged since the fall of 1898 on the floor of the Stock Exchange, on the turf and in the arena of politics. Marshaling his forces at every favorable opportunity,
Mr. Keene has so disposed them as to thwart the financial projects of his adversary. As a patron of the turf he has disbursed a fortune to possess himself of horses more fleet than those of
Mr. Whitney; in politics his sympathies have run counter to those of the former secretary of the navy.

ALFRED PRINTING
TRADES UNION COUNCIL
EAST LIVERPOOL, O.
SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 16, 1901.

President Roosevelt has proved his
zeal for reciprocity in a most positive
and significant manner. To a delega-
important chambers of commerce who
called upon him recently, he said:
"While it would be manifestly improper for me to advocate a reciprocal treaty with any one country, I can assure you that every influence of my
securing such treaties with the great
commercial nations of the world.

That the influence of the administration will be felt is certain from the
character of its chief and responsible
director, and the opponents of any
be broken to pieces between it and
the people. Concessions must be made, and as President Roosevelt indicates, they must be to the great commercial nations if they are to have any
value for ourselves.

John R. McLean, it is said, is booked for a campaign for governor or
senator in 1903. This is rather good
news for Republicans. Ohio can be carried without the aid which McLean's
candidacy would furnish, but the 10, 000 or 15,000 additional majority which
his participation in the canvass would
give would be accepted.

President Kruger likes the arbitration idea, but he either wants to select the judges or to have it understood that he is not to be held strictly
to the decision the arbitrators may
make. Oom Paul is a somewhat peculiar old gentleman.

authority to do anything and everything in New Jersey and elsewhere, as seems best to him to do, and New Jersey pocketed a fee of $80,000 for turning Mr. Morgan loose on the public
again.

In the entire United States there are 1,706,293 native illiterates of voting age of whom 1,132,237 or nearly two-thirds are in the eleven southern states. There is a crying need of an educational movement down there.

A Pennsylvania rural mail carrier has resigned because when he gets to a certain place in the mountains he sees a ghost, a snake and a monkey, and not a doubt his tale is all moonshine.

Now that the sultan of Turkey has agreed to pay France, a bill appears from Austria. What a commotion there will be when Russia presents its big unsettled war indemnity.

That English lord who claims he has a system for breaking the bank at Monte Carlo rather injures his claim by intimating that it requires a lot of capital to run it properly.

Pneumonia now causes more deaths in the United States than any other disease. It may be well to explain here that the grade crossing is not a disease but an outrage.

If there is anything more unreliable than a weather forecast it is the advance predictions as to what President Roosevelt will say in his forthcoming message.

One John Belden, of Shickshinny, Pa., claims to have discovered perpetual motion. Most any one would discover it, to get away from a town of that name.

Repeal the law allowing fees to attorneys who bring injunction suits against public improvements and their interest in the dear people would fade

in a minute.

An attempt to kill the Midway elephant at Buffalo by means of electricity, failed. Why not send him over Niagara Falls in a barrel?

The popularity of rural free delivery is shown by the number of applicants for routes which are double the entire number now in operation.

It seems a pretty good plan to believe none of the stories that are told about Missionary Stone.

The disappearance of Chief Devery leads to the opinion that he believes the goods are on him.

key will be loaded to the guards.

AT THE THEATER

Fred Raymond's latest melodramatic
success, "Old Arkansaw," will be given an elaborate production at the
opera house next Wednesday night.
This play is full of dramatic action
from the raising of the first curtain
to the ending of the performance.
There is not one moment in which
the audience is not deeply interested.
The company presenting the play is all
that could be desired. Each of the
many characters in the play is in competent hands. The scenery and stage
settings seen in this production are
elaborate.

The wide range of society covered
by the plot of the new Russo-Siberian play, "For Her Sake," which is
to be seen here November 19, ought
to furnish exceptional opportunity for
scenic effect, and it is said that Lester
& Co., who produce the piece, did not fail to profit by their chance. The
load of special scenery, all of which
was painted by artists who made a study of the scenes which it was aimed to produce. The piece is in four acts.

SNUBBED MISS CORELLI.

How an English Schoolmistress Re-
buked the Novelist.

A correspondent who has been visit-
per's Weekly that Miss Marie Corelli
figures by no means among the least
of the local attractions at Stratford-on-Avon. She has quite a large establishment, and her carriage and coachmen
are much observed when she drives
about. The townspeople do not seem
to take her very seriously. She is talked of as being "queer," a literary
person whose ways are naturally a little unconventional.

When Miss Corelli made her home in Stratford-on-Avon, she was then at
work on "The Master Christian," published last year. To her vexation, she found that the house next to hers was occupied as a private school. It appears that at a certain hour in the day,
when she was most engrossed in her
work, the classes would be up for cal-
isthenics, and the disturbance became
very annoying to Miss Corelli. She wrote to the schoolmistress and, informing her that she was at work on
hoped to give to the world in a few
distracting hour of noisy exercise to
one that would be more convenient to
her. Miss Corelli received in effect the
following reply by return:

"Dear Madam—I beg to remind you
that my school was here before you
made your home in this town and that I cannot change the hour of the exercises as you suggest, not even to further the important work upon which
you are engaged. Indeed I may say
that if your masterpiece is to be at all
like the works which you have already
written anything I can do to prevent
as a blessing to the world."

It Jarred Him.

"Pleasant offices you have here," said
a policy holder who visited a life insurance office in the Postal Telegraph
building in New York to pay his premium. The windows overlook the City
Hall park and the Nathan Hale statue.
"Yes," replied the insurance man,
"but the inscription on that Hale statue, patriotic and inspiring though it is, strikes a discordant note in the soul of one who is underwriting risks on men's lives. Look at it—My only regret is that I have but one life to
York Times.

Dealing in Futures.

Mr. Newed—I have an option on that Blank avenue house. How would you like it for our home, my dear?
Mrs. Newed—Oh, it's a pretty place,
but you know it is said to be haunted.
Mamma says she wouldn't set her foot inside the door for any amount of money.

Mr. Newed—That settles it. I'll close the deal for it the first thing in the morning.—Chicago News.

The Impudent Photographer.

Clara—Well, aunt, have your photographs come from Mr. Snappschott's?
Miss Maydeval (angrily)—Yes, and they went back, too, with a note expressing my opinion of his impudence.
Clara—Gracious! What was it?
Miss Maydeval—Why, on the back of
every picture were these words, "The
original of this is carefully preserved."

His First Business Venture.

An American capitalist who has
made a fortune running far into the
millions likes to tell a story of his first
business venture and how he saddened
fond of frequenting a public saleroom
near his home where all sorts of bar-
gains were offered:

One day I noticed several boxes of
soap of a certain brand which I had
often been sent to buy at the corner
grocery. I thought to myself, "That
and received a promise from the man
at a certain figure as I could furnish.
Of course he never suspected that I
could furnish any of it.

I returned to the saleroom, and
when the soap was put up I bid it in,
and it was knocked down to me. My
name was demanded, and when I gave
it in a shrill voice everybody laughed,
for I was then only eleven years of
age.

Amused as they were at the sale, the
bystanders were amazed when I bid in
the whole lot of twenty-two boxes. I
had them carried over to the grocery
and received the price agreed upon.
The grocer wore a weary look when he
heard how I had obtained the soap.
He said:

"Well, I guess I could have done that
myself."

I replied that I guessed he could, too,
but he hadn't.—Youth's Companion.

Man Who Named America.

Few Americans are aware of the fact
that the name of their continent is due
to a German scholar. In 1507 Martin Waldseemuller, also known as Hylacomylus, of St. Die, in the Vosges,
edited a book called "Cosmographie Introductio," in which he gave a translation of Amerigo Vespucci's description of his voyages.

That was just the time when Ameri-
go's fame filled the world, while Columbus' disgrace overshadowed his merit,
and evidently his name had never
reached the quiet village in the Vosges
when Amerigo trumpeted forth his own
glory. So Hylacomylus proposed that,
since the new continent was, after all,
not a part of the Indies, no name would
suit it better than that of his famous
explorer, Amerigo.

The book was read far and wide, and
so quickly was the proposition accepted
that, when later on the true discoverer
was known, the name was already
rooted too deeply in general use to
to the north part of the continent, while Hylacomylus had only meant it for
Geographic Magazine.

For Tired Eyes.

Eyes will be greatly strengthened by putting the face down into a glass of eyecup of water the first thing in the
morning and opening them under water. This is somewhat difficult to do
at first, but if the water for two or
three days be tepid and gradually made
colder by imperceptible degrees until
it is no shock to put the face into quite
easy and is very invigorating and refreshing.

If done regularly every day, this
treatment alone will preserve the sight
into quite old age. There is a right
and wrong way of wiping the eyes
after this, too, and the right way is to pass the soft towel very gently from
the outer angle inward toward the
nose.

If after a long day the eyes feel so
hot and tired that they seem dim when one tries to read or to do a little necessary sewing for oneself, they should be bathed with cold tea from which the leaves have been removed.

HUNTERS KILL CATTLE.

Stalking For Deer, They Slaughter
Farmer's Cows.

If John Henderson, a well known
farmer of Pleasant Valley, between Newburg and Cohecton, says a dispatch from Goshen, N. Y., can find a party of New York hunters who have
been in his neighborhood, it will cost
them money to get away, for they have
killed all the cows upon his farm except one, and they wounded that one
severely in the leg.

The cows were undoubtedly shot under the impression that they were a herd of deer, as all were found lying
dead in one pasture lot, three side by
away. They were found after a search
world.

Mr. Henderson is perfectly willing
that the hunters take the heads home
and have them mounted, but he cannot afford the loss and would like to be paid for the animals.

Evolution.

MONEY KINGS' FEUD.

Whitney Carried to Polls.

Why the Tammany Defeat in New York City Elated One and Depressed the Other—Story of a Bitter Rivalry in Wall Street, on the Turf
and in Politics.

To James R. Keene the success of
the fusion ticket at the late election in
New York came as a soothing balm,
says the New York Herald. To him
the overthrow of the Tammany organization signified mainly the discomfiture of William C. Whitney, who had espoused the Shepard cause and between whom and himself there exists
a feud in finance, in sport and in politics so bitter in its intensity that any cause championed by Mr. Whitney is sure to find an opponent in Mr. Keene.

Strange stories are told in Wall street
of the assistance rendered to the fusion candidates, and especially to William Travers Jerome, by Mr. Keene.
The well known operator is said to
have opened his purse on the very day
that Mr. Whitney declared for Shepard, and he is credited with generous
contributions to the campaign fund.

But, what is of more importance, Mr.
Keene is said to have aided Mr. Jerome with advice, given through mutual friends, and to have kept him informed concerning certain happenings
in which he believed the fusion candidate's interests were involved.

Keene furnished Judge Jerome with
the information that Senator Platt and
Mr. Whitney had met in the office of
Thomas F. Ryan, it was asserted, to
plan his defeat and that Judge Je-
rome's attack on Platt and Whitney
was inspired from the same quarter.

Whatever part Mr. Keene may have played, his motives are easily traced by men in Wall street. It was said by
those professing to know that the conference between Senator Platt and Mr.
Whitney had no direct bearing on Judge
Jerome's candidacy, but that Mr.
Keene's friends, recognizing in the candidate for district attorney an able ally,
concluded to array him against Mr.
Whitney by telling only half the truth.

At all events, Mr. Keene and his friends see in the result of the election
a personal triumph over Mr. Whitney
and his associates in the Metropolitan Street Railway company, and they rejoice accordingly.

Bad feeling between Mr. Keene and
Mr. Whitney was engendered in the spring of 1898, having its origin in Mr.
Keene's manipulation of Metropolitan
stock. At that time there was a pool
field marshal of the traction forces on
the floor of the Stock Exchange. He engineered a bull movement in the security, and on Feb. 14 Metropolitan
touched 17 1/2. Suddenly and without warning that day a large quantity of
the stock was thrown on the market,
and the price broke to 15 1/2.

It was seven months later that the
real break in the relations of Mr.
Whitney and the pool manager occurred. This time there was no quibbling; charges of bad faith were made
laid for the feud, which has been
waged bitterly ever since.

For several months Mr. Keene had
been manipulating the stock of the American Tobacco company, in which
Mr. Whitney and his friends were largely interested. Under his guidance quotations had been raised to an unprecedented level, and in the latter
part of September, 1898, plans for controlling the tobacco industry of the country and executing a sensational
coup in the stock market were well
under way. Mr. Keene was the only
member of the pool to figure openly in
this transaction.

Mr. Keene himself explained the situation in an interview published in
The Herald at the time.

"The defection of any one large holder of tobacco stock," he said, "would
naturally produce serious consequences
in the market. When the most indubitable evidence was furnished to
me that one or two members of the
pool had sold I sold my stock, and did
it promptly, at between $145 and $136
a share."

Mr. Keene is said to have purchased
his stock—some forty thousand shares—
at approximately $87 a share, and his
profits were estimated to be not far from $1,500,000. Mr. Whitney's brother-in-law, Oliver H. Payne, and Messrs.
Duke, Schley and Terrell, representing
various interests, were seriously embarrassed by Mr. Keene's precipitate
selling, which upset—for the time being at least—the ambitious plans of
the pool.

When taken to task by Mr. Whitney,
as the Wall street legend runs, Mr.
Keene is said to have puffed his cigar
nonchalantly and replied: "Why, certainly I did. When I go into a race of

Whatever the facts may be it is certain that no quarter has been given in the battle royal in which these gladiators of finance have been engaged
since the fall of 1898 on the floor of the Stock Exchange, on the turf and in the arena of politics. Marshaling his forces at every favorable opportunity,
Mr. Keene has so disposed them as to thwart the financial projects of his adversary. As a patron of the turf he
has disbursed a fortune to possess himself of horses more fleet than those of
Mr. Whitney; in politics his sympa-
thies have run counter to those of the

WELLSVILLE

GAS COMPANY

REFUSES TO GRANT THE DEMAND OF THE COUNCIL.

As a Result, Council May Decide to Take Action to Revoke the Franchise.

At a recent meeting of the city council, City Solicitor Wells was commissioned to correspond with the Fort Pitt Gas company, of Pittsburg, concerning their furnishing the city of Wellsville with heat and light at such places as the council might see fit, free of charge. The grounds upon which the council based their demand was due to the fact that the gas company is having the use of the streets under which their pipes are laid and the city is receiving no revenue from them for this usage and it was the opinion of the council that it would be only an act of justice to the city if the gas company would comply with the requisition.

Mr. Wells did as directed, receiving a reply from the company yesterday, but they seem to think that the council wants too much and will not agree to grant the wishes of our city legislators.

The company argues that they are giving the people a good gas service and that ought to be sufficient. The matter will be considered at the next meeting of council, which will be Tuesday evening, November 19, and it is probable that if the company does not come to the terms of the demand that action will be taken to revoke their franchise, which, it is assured, can be done, as their franchise was not granted for any specified time.

AN ACCIDENT

WALTER WELDON FELL FROM A FREIGHT CAR.

His Shoulder Was Dislocated And He Also Suffered a Broken Arm.

Walter Weldon, a resident of the West End, who has been in the employ of the C. & P. railroad as brakeman, met with a serious and painful accident yesterday while in the discharge of his duties. He was standing on the end of a car intending to make a coupling, when by a sudden lurch of the car he was thrown violently to the ground, receiving a dislocated shoulder and his arm broken in three places.

He was removed to his home, where medical aid was summoned and his excruciating pain alleviated.

LIVERPOOL LOST

Wellsville Bowlers Showed Them How to Roll the Balls Last Night.

The closing of the bowling alleys in Rock Springs park has been instrumental in causing the majority of the East Liverpool bowlers to come to our city to engage in that popular sport. Last night in the presence of a large crowd of enthusiastic men and boys a series of three games was bowled by an East Liverpool and Wellsville team on Campbell's alleys.

The visiting team lost, only winning one of the three games, that being the second. Excellent scores were made by both sides, likewise several very low scores.

The bowlers from East Liverpool were Messrs. Silcott, McCurdy, Davis, Lewis, Armour and Sample.

Those of Wellsville were Messrs. Shingles, Aten, Hall, Harshy, Apple and Weaver.

Special Meeting of Presbytery.

A special meeting of the Steubenville presbytery has been called for next Monday at the Second Presbyterian church in this city. The purpose of the meeting will be to dissolve the pastoral relations of Rev. David A. Green with the Malvern and Waynesburg churches. The dissolution is at Rev. Mr. Green's request, he having accepted the pastorate of the Presbyterian church at Fairview, W. Va.

MINOR NEWS OF WELLSVILLE.

Miss Emma Heiner is among the sick.

Mrs. James Mackie is better after a short illness.

J. H. Aten left for Pittsburg last evening on business.

Samuel Biggs, janitor of the M. E. church, is off duty on account of sickness.

Health Officer Warren is recovering from an attack of inflammation of the spine.

Joe Harris, master mechanic in the shops, is home from a visit with Cleveland friends.

Dr. Grafton returned yesterday from an inspection trip over the C. & P. road west.

Mrs. J. N. Johnson returned yesterday from a visit with Mrs. Dr. Meyers at Salineville.

Mrs. David Harris is home from a week's visit with her parents in Waynesburg.

Mrs. M. F. Householder was the guest of relatives in Pittsburg and vicinity this week.

Fred Burnett has accepted a position in the clerical department of the West End machine shops.

Frank Fox, boss in the machine shops, has returned from a visit with relatives at Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Nicholson Lickenstein has resigned his position at Campbell's bowling alley and departed for Salem.

Mr. and Mrs. M. V. Cusick, the guests of friends in New Philadelphia for a week, have returned home.

Alex Smith, the well driller, returned from Port Homer yesterday, where he shot an oil well which is producing 15 barrels per day.

The boiler works in the West End have been shut down since Wednesday on account of a broken engine. The needed repairs have been made and work will be resumed on Monday.

Mrs. M. H. Williamson, who is confined in a Pittsburg hospital, where she had a cancer removed the first of the week, is doing as well as could be expected. This will be good news to her many friends.

Charles Mardis, of this city, who was to have been tried in Lisbon this week on a charge of assault with intent to kill, will have another period in the county jail, his case being continued until the next term of court.

Ideas of News.

Justice John M. Harlan of the United States supreme court, when a practicing lawyer in Louisville, once tried his hand at newspaper work, taking the place of a personal friend, then editor of the Louisville Commercial. The justice got along all right writing editorials, but had ideas as to news that were at variance with those of the city editor.

One of the reporters had written a clever account of a man who had fallen from the fourth story of a building and escaped without serious injury. It made a story of about a column in length. With a proof of the article in his hand the temporary editor came to the city editor and said:

"Mr. Smith, please have this story cut down. I can't see anything in it that makes it worth that space."

"But it's the 'star' story of the day, Mr. Harlan," gasped the astonished news man. "I think it's a remarkable story and well worth all the space given to it."

"I don't," said Justice Harlan. "If a man had jumped up four stories, it would certainly have been remarkable, but even a fool could fall down four stories, or half a dozen, for that matter."—New York Times.

The Driver's Point of View.

The hotel coach was filled with a crowd of happy, jubilant visitors, and the horses toiled splendidly up the hills. As each eminence was reached and at every turn in the road the crowd would burst forth into cries of wonder and delight at the magnificent scenes which burst upon their view. The mountain jehu alone preserved a dignity and silence which rather awed the others. At length, after a particularly lovely view had been passed, one of the guests at the driver's left hand remarked:

"You don't seem to take much interest in the scenery. No doubt it's an old story to you."

The driver shook his head. "No, that's not it," he answered. "I just don't care." Then he leaned a little closer and whispered: "But I know just how you folks must feel. You all come from a long distance just to see things, and you're bound to enjoy it anyhow so as to get your money's worth and not feel as though you was cheatin' yourselves. Oh," said this driver in a superior tone, "I don't mind it when I understand how 'tis."—Leslie's Weekly.

KILLED A HORSE

SOME HUNTER WHO COULD NOT SHOOT STRAIGHT.

West Virginia Farmers Are Incensed And Will Form an Association.

West Virginia citizens are in an irritable mood over the depredations committed by hunters around Chester in the past month.

Yesterday some nimrod shot a horse belonging to R. G. Stewart, who resides two miles east of Chester. The animal, which was valued at $200, died this morning.

Three horses have been killed by hunters within the past month. One of them belonged to William Mater, four miles east of Rock Springs park. A short time ago Mr. Mater had some cattle shot. He is much incensed and sent his son to Wheeling this week, where a vicious dog was purchased to defend his premises against trespassers.

Farmers between Chester and Hookstown are forming an alliance against hunters.

Constable Hiram Allison says he will arrest non-residents of the state if he caught them hunting near Chester. The laws of West Virginia forbid the taking of game from the state and non-resident hunters are subject to a heavy license.

CHESTER NOTES.

John Shrader went to Pittsburg this morning.

Miss Minnie Simpson, of Detroit, Mich., is visiting her brother William Simpson.

Miss Ann'e Moore, of Wellsville, has been visiting Miss Bessie Swearingen, on Indiana avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. R. S. McGlumphy entertained a number of friends last evening at their home on Phoenix avenue.

The measuring social held at the U. P. church last night was a nice affair. It was a financial success, the proceeds amounting to $27.61.

About 40 friends of Mr. and Mrs. George Wynn surprised them with a party at the Wynn home last night. The evening was spent in dancing. A nice luncheon was served.

BACKED BY MILLIONAIRES.

Rockefellers Supported Roosa, but He Failed of Election.

Reuben Roosa, candidate for highway commissioner in the little town of Mount Pleasant, or North Tarrytown, was probably backed in the late election by men representing more money than any who ever before supported a candidate for a similar office.

Standing in front of the little store where the polling of the Third district votes was in progress, clad in plain jeans, Roosa had the satisfaction of knowing that John D. Rockefeller, multimillionaire, was behind him; that William Rockefeller wanted to see him elected; that Walter M. Law was his backer and that Mrs. Elliott F. Shepard favored his candidacy.

The Rockefellers were particularly anxious to see Roosa elected because he is one of the employees on the vast estate of John D. Rockefeller, and might, therefore, be expected to favor the improvement and beautifying of the country roads in the neighborhood of the Pocantico hills. Roosa is at present an express driver for the Rockefellers and lives on the estate.

Commissioner Hutton, Roosa's opponent, had a realizing sense from the start that he was "up against it," with all the millionaires backing Roosa, and so he made play to catch the laborers' votes and was elected.

Arab Music.

Arab music has been described as the singing of a prima donna who has ruptured her voice in trying to sing a duet with herself. Each note starts from somewhere between a sharp and a flat, but does not stop even there and splits up into four or more portions, of which no person can be expected to catch more than one at a time.

NEGRO SOCIETIES.

THE SOUTHERN COLORED MAN'S LOVE OF POMP AND CIRCUMSTANCE.

Wonderfully Named Organizations to Provide For Members' Sick Benefits and Funeral Expenses—How They Flourish in Charleston.

The southern negro's love of pomp and circumstance is nowhere exemplified more forcibly than in the manner in which he multiplies his charitable organizations. Inordinately fond of company, he has few societies founded with the sole view of promoting social enjoyment. For the most part, whatever foundations he makes have a semireligious trend, the dues entitling members to sick benefits and funeral expenses. There is usually an elaborate regalia and an intricate ritual. Not a few negroes of a southern city, such as Charleston, belong to no less than a score of these orders, the names of which are oftentimes curiously and wonderfully made. What, for instance, would the ordinary patron of secret organizations think of possessing membership in the Sons and Daughters of the Seven Golden Candlesticks in Charity or in the Sons and Daughters of I Will Arise?

The sons and daughters idea is worked to the limit of endurance. There is scarcely a well known name in Biblical history that is not tacked on to it. There are in Charleston alone no less than seventy-five of these societies with charters from the state of South Carolina, and how many there are that have no legal status no man may say with confidence.

Dues are paid weekly, and, strange as it may seem when the great poverty of the negro of the south is considered, the arrears list is a brief one indeed. Of course the charges are small, usually about 25 cents a month, but when it is remembered that many individuals belong to six or eight or even more orders it is little short of marvelous how the funds necessary to meet the demands of the collectors are found, and yet it is so deep a disgrace to be expelled that instances of the kind are very rare. To hold membership in a number of societies is regarded as a badge of honor.

Meetings are held monthly in private residences, in public halls or, more frequently still, in churches. These gatherings begin at the fashionable hour of 10 p. m. and continue not infrequently throughout the night. Refreshments are to be had for a small consideration, and as these are for the most part of a liquid nature the sons and daughters are prone to be conspicuous by their absence from their several places of employment next morning. Often the police have to interfere to restore that harmony in which brothers and sisters should ever dwell together.

Among the societies in Charleston are the Sons and Daughters of the Pilgrims, the Sons and Daughters of the Twelve Disciples, the Sons and Daughters of the Bearer of the Cross, the Sons and Daughters of the Evening Star, the Sons and Daughters of the Seventh Star, the Sons and Daughters of the Celestial Travelers, the Sons and Daughters of the Good Samaritan, the Sons and Daughters of the East, the Sons and Daughters of Lazarus, the Sons and Daughters of Christian Love, and there might be added to these fully two score of others. The devotion of the negroes to these organizations and their loyalty to their fellow members are absolute.

The funeral of a colored man or woman who holds membership in a half dozen of these orders is a spectacle worth witnessing. Occasionally bitter feuds arise between rival societies for the possession of a corpse, for the negro's love of a funeral is not second even to his love of melons. The ceremonies usually begin the night before the actual interment is to take place. There are sermons, prayers and personal experiences interspersed with wild bursts of incoherent melody, which arouses religious fervor to fever height. Men and women faint in the course of the exercises, many others fall into trances and talk of visions of their dead friends enthroned in glory.

The ceremonies culminate in a formal procession. It is forming for an hour before the residence of the late lamented son or daughter. Negroes from the uttermost parts of the city gather in the streets. The occasion is a festive one. They run and shout and caper. The members of the organizations to which the dead person belonged stand in solemn order, clad in elaborate uniforms and bearing the banners and other insignia of their respective orders, and when the cortege finally moves, wending its way at times through miles of the city's streets, it is followed by a mad rush of men, women and children, who block the thoroughfares, and traffic for the time being has to be suspended. The hope of such a funeral is the inspiration of many a negro's whole life. He slaves and deprives himself of actual necessities for years to meet the demands of the collectors of the societies in order that he may go to his last resting place in the midst of such strangely weird pageantry.—Charleston Letter in New York Tribune.

WELLSVILLE

As a Result, Council May Decide to Take Action to Revoke the Franchise.

At a recent meeting of the city council, City Solicitor Wells was commissioned to correspond with the Fort Pitt Gas company, of Pittsburgh, concerning their furnishing the city of Wellsville with heat and light at such places as the council might see fit, free of charge. The grounds upon which the council based their demand was due to the fact that the gas company is having the use of the streets under which their pipes are laid and the city is receiving no revenue from them for this usage and it was the opinion of the council that it would be only an act of justice to the city if the gas company would comply with the requisition.

Mr. Wells did as directed, receiving a reply from the company yesterday, but they seem to think that the council wants too much and will not agree to grant the wishes of our city legislators.

The company argues that they are giving the people a good gas service and that ought to be sufficient. The matter will be considered at the next meeting of council, which will be Tuesday evening, November 19, and it is probable that if the company does not come to the terms of the demand that action will be taken to revoke their franchise, which, it is assured, can be done, as their franchise was not granted for any specified time.

WALTER WELDON FELL FROM A FREIGHT CAR.

His Shoulder Was Dislocated And He Also Suffered a Broken Arm.

Walter Weldon, a resident of the West End, who has been in the employ of the C. & P. railroad as brakeman, met with a serious and painful accident yesterday while in the discharge of his duties. He was standing on the end of a car intending to make a coupling, when by a sudden lurch of the car he was thrown violently to the ground, receiving a dislocated shoulder and his arm broken in three places.

He was removed to his home, where medical aid was summoned and his excruciating pain alleviated.

LIVERPOOL LOST

Wellsville Bowlers Showed Them How to Roll the Balls Last Night.

The closing of the bowling alleys in Rock Springs park has been instrumental in causing the majority of the East Liverpool bowlers to come to our city to engage in that popular sport.

Last night in the presence of a large crowd of enthusiastic men and boys a series of three games was bowled by an East Liverpool and Wellsville team on Campbell's alleys.

The visiting team lost, only winning one of the three games, that being the second. Excellent scores were made by both sides, likewise several very low scores.

The bowlers from East Liverpool were Messrs. Silcott, McCurdy, Davis, Lewis, Armour and Sample.

Special Meeting of Presbytery.

A special meeting of the Steubenville presbytery has been called for next Monday at the Second Presbyterian church in this city. The purpose of the meeting will be to dissolve the pastoral relations of Rev. David A. Green with the Malvern and Waynesburg churches. The dissolution is at Rev. Mr. Green's request, he having accepted the pastorate of the Presbyterian church at Fairview, W. Va.

MINOR NEWS OF WELLSVILLE.

Miss Emma Heiner is among the sick.

Mrs. James Mackie is better after a short illness.

J. H. Aten left for Pittsburgh last evening on business.

Samuel Biggs, janitor of the M. E. church, is off duty on account of sickness.

Health Officer Warren is recovering from an attack of inflammation of the spine.

Joe Harris, master mechanic in the shops, is home from a visit with Cleveland friends.

Dr. Grafton returned yesterday from an inspection trip over the C. & P. road west.

Mrs. J. N. Johnson returned yesterday from a visit with Mrs. Dr. Meyers at Salineville.

Mrs. David Harris is home from a week's visit with her parents in Waynesburg.

Mrs. M. F. Householder was the guest of relatives in Pittsburgh and vicinity this week.

Fred Burnett has accepted a position in the clerical department of the West End machine shops.

Frank Fox, boss in the machine shops, has returned from a visit with relatives at Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Nicholson Lickenstein has resigned his position at Campbell's bowling alley and departed for Salem.

Mr. and Mrs. M. V. Cusick, the guests of friends in New Philadelphia for a week, have returned home.

Alex Smith, the well driller, returned from Port Homer yesterday, where he shot an oil well which is producing 15 barrels per day.

The boiler works in the West End have been shut down since Wednesday on account of a broken engine. The needed repairs have been made and work will be resumed on Monday.

Mrs. M. H. Williamson, who is confined in a Pittsburgh hospital, where she had a cancer removed the first of the week, is doing as well as could be expected. This will be good news to her many friends.

Charles Mardis, of this city, who was to have been tried in Lisbon this week on a charge of assault with intent to kill, will have another period in the county jail, his case being continued until the next term of court.

Ideas of News.

Justice John M. Harlan of the United States supreme court, when a practicing lawyer in Louisville, once tried his hand at newspaper work, taking the place of a personal friend, then editor of the Louisville Commercial. The justice got along all right writing editorials, but had ideas as to news that were at variance with those of the city editor.

One of the reporters had written a clever account of a man who had fallen from the fourth story of a building and escaped without serious injury. It made a story of about a column in length. With a proof of the article in his hand the temporary editor came to the city editor and said:

"Mr. Smith, please have this story cut down. I can't see anything in it that makes it worth that space."

"But it's the 'star' story of the day, Mr. Harlan," gasped the astonished news man. "I think it's a remarkable story and well worth all the space given to it."

"I don't," said Justice Harlan. "If a man had jumped up four stories, it would certainly have been remarkable, but even a fool could fall down four stories, or half a dozen, for that matter."—New York Times.

The Driver's Point of View.

The hotel coach was filled with a crowd of happy, jubilant visitors, and the horses toiled splendidly up the hills. As each eminence was reached and at every turn in the road the crowd would burst forth into cries of wonder and delight at the magnificent scenes which burst upon their view. The mountain Jehu alone preserved a dignity and silence which rather awed the others. At length, after a particularly lovely view had been passed, one of the guests at the driver's left hand remarked:

"You don't seem to take much interest in the scenery. No doubt it's an old story to you."

The driver shook his head. "No, that's not it," he answered. "I just don't care." Then he leaned a little closer and whispered: "But I know just how you folks must feel. You all come from a long distance just to see things, and you're bound to enjoy it anyhow so as to get your money's worth and not feel as though you was cheating yourselves. Oh," said this driver in a superior tone, "I don't mind it when I understand how 'tis."—Leslie's Weekly.

To Save Time.

Visitor—No, I won't come in. Could I see Mr. Jones for two minutes?

Servant—What name shall I say, sir?

Visitor—Professor Vondersplakentootheimer.

Servant—Och, sure ye'd better step in and bring it wid ye, sorr!—Punch.

Not Necessary.

"When you are at a loss for a suitable word, do you ever apply to your wife?"

"No," replied the writer; "I don't have to. Her entire vocabulary is coming my way most of the time."—Chicago Post.

KILLED A HORSE

West Virginia Farmers Are Incensed And Will Form an Association.

West Virginia citizens are in an irritable mood over the depredations committed by hunters around Chester in the past month.

Yesterday some nimrod shot a horse belonging to R. G. Stewart, who resides two miles east of Chester. The animal, which was valued at $200, died this morning.

Three horses have been killed by hunters within the past month. One of them belonged to William Mater, four miles east of Rock Springs park. A short time ago Mr. Mater had some cattle shot. He is much incensed and sent his son to Wheeling this week, where a vicious dog was purchased to defend his premises against trespassers.

Farmers between Chester and Hookstown are forming an alliance against hunters.

Constable Hiram Allison says he will arrest non-residents of the state if he caught them hunting near Chester. The laws of West Virginia forbid the taking of game from the state and non-resident hunters are subject to a heavy license.

CHESTER NOTES.

John Shrader went to Pittsburgh this morning.

Miss Minnie Simpson, of Detroit, Mich., is visiting her brother William Simpson.

Miss Annie Moore, of Wellsville, has been visiting Miss Bessie Swearingen, on Indiana avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. R. S. McGlumphy entertained a number of friends last evening at their home on Phoenix avenue.

The measuring social held at the U. P. church last night was a nice affair. It was a financial success, the proceeds amounting to $27.61.

About 40 friends of Mr. and Mrs. George Wynn surprised them with a party at the Wynn home last night. The evening was spent in dancing. A nice luncheon was served.

Rockefellers Supported Roosa, but He Failed of Election.

Reuben Roosa, candidate for highway commissioner in the little town of Mount Pleasant, or North Tarrytown, was probably backed in the late election by men representing more money than any who ever before supported a candidate for a similar office.

Standing in front of the little store where the polling of the Third district votes was in progress, clad in plain jeans, Roosa had the satisfaction of knowing that John D. Rockefeller, multimillionaire, was behind him; that William Rockefeller wanted to see him elected; that Walter M. Law was his backer and that Mrs. Elliott F. Shepard favored his candidacy.

The Rockefellers were particularly anxious to see Roosa elected because he is one of the employees on the vast estate of John D. Rockefeller, and might, therefore, be expected to favor the improvement and beautifying of the country roads in the neighborhood of the Pocantico hills. Roosa is at present an express driver for the Rockefellers and lives on the estate.

Commissioner Hutton, Roosa's opponent, had a realizing sense from the start that he was "up against it," with all the millionaires backing Roosa, and so he made play to catch the laborers' votes and was elected.

Arab Music.

Arab music has been described as the singing of a prima donna who has ruptured her voice in trying to sing a duet with herself. Each note starts from somewhere between a sharp and a flat, but does not stop even there and splits up into four or more portions, of which no person can be expected to catch more than one at a time.

FOREST PRESERVATION

The Work of Restoring the Denuded Lands.

BRINGS JOY TO WOODSMAN'S HEART

Activity of the Federal Government
in the Matter—The Example of Europe—Training Experts—The Question of Profit—Supplying New Trees.

Few of Uncle Sam's enterprises have brought more joy to the hearts of nature lovers than the establishment of the division of forestry in the department of agriculture, writes a correspondent of the New York Commercial Advertiser. There has been prolonged mourning from the lovers of trees and forests at the rapid disappearance of all such attributes of the natural, and men have prophesied that in a few years more even those bits of woodland like the Adirondacks would be cut into lumber or ground to make pulp. But the rise of American forestry assures us that this will not be the case.

The assumption of forestry work by the government was the result of some very simple facts. Men looked at the lands which had once borne pine and saw in Maine, New York, Michigan and Wisconsin great stretches of barren waste whose owners had found it so useless that they had allowed it to revert to the states in default of taxes. It would raise nothing but timber, and that being cut away it was useless. The matter might have ended there and been set down among the inevitable trials of this mundane existence but for the fact that a glimpse at the nations of Europe showed that similar lands are kept as forests and pay good interest on the money invested.

So the government set about the saving of our own forests. The details of forestry are infinite, but one general principle covers the field. Instead of slashing away every bit of available timber and then permitting the land to run wild the trees are to be cut as they mature and young trees are to be encouraged and protected in order that the forest will reproduce itself as fast as possible.

The work of the division of forestry required foresters—experts who could look over a forest and tell not merely what yield it would produce of timber, but men who know how it may best be preserved and perpetuated and what may be done toward making it pay better interest on the money invested. Practically the only way to secure such men was by educating them. So the division offered places to a number of students. These students work alike in the office at Washington and in field parties in the forests. Now they are in the Adirondacks, next month in the Cascades. Next year perhaps it will be the cypress swamps of Louisiana that call for their presence. They live in the woods, learn to know the woods and to understand it. Usually they work in parties of a dozen under an expert from the staff of the superintendent of working plans.

There were a number of questions to be answered by the work of the experts. Would conservative forestry pay? By cutting trees as they matured and taking pains to encourage young growth could the forest be made to yield a satisfactory income? Could the planting of young trees be made a success? Were there any destructive forces at work in the forests that might be checked? The first of these was answered satisfactorily.

The reports of the parties sent to study the lands reported that both tracts could be made paying investments. Each report embodied two facts as fundamental—first, the amount of standing timber; second, the rate of growth. Given these it was easy to compute just how long would be required for the forest to grow to its present state if all trees down to a certain merchantable size are cut. The working plan advised in each case was that the forest be divided into as many tracts as it would require years to re-

As a Food For the Skin.

To Make It Smooth, Healthy and Beautiful, Dr. Chase's Ointment is Hailed by Thousands of Fair Women.

Every woman, no matter how beautiful her skin, finds need at times of some preparation to overcome the redness and roughness, and to cure the pimples, blackheads and skin irritations.
Powders may cover up the disfiguring eruptions, but can never cure them, and are positively injurious because they clog up the pores of the skin. Dr. Chase's Ointment is a food for the skin. It is readily absorbed and thoroughly cures each and every skin disease making the skin smooth, soft and clear.

No woman's toilet is complete without Dr. Chase's Ointment, for besides being the most perfect skin beautifier obtainable it can be used in a score of different ways. It absolutely cures eczema, salt rheum and the itching to which women are especially subject.
When the feet are sore and chafed with walking an application of Dr. Chase's Ointment takes out the smarting and allays the inflammation in a surprisingly short time. Then for burns, scalds and every sort of chafing, irritation or eruption of the skin Dr. Chase's Ointment affords a safe and certain cure. It has come to be indispensable in scores of thousands of homes in the United States; so cent a box, at all dealers, or Dr. A. W. Chase Medicine Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

It dissolves and expels dirt and stains with practically no rubbing and no injury, and leaves the fabric white and strong as ever. Read the wrapper and learn washing without working.

produce itself, that one of these be lumbered each year, thus having the first tract ready to timber a second time when the last has been finished.

When it came to estimating the returns, however, no such interest on investment was promised as is sometimes realized in the forests of Germany. However, a modest gain was assured.

When it came to a consideration of means by which forest growth may be encouraged, the foresters failed to recommend many of the methods employed in the old world. Planting trees it found entirely lacking in feasibility.

In the place of tree planting good seed bearing trees are left here and there, and from them are blown seeds which go to furnish a stock of young trees. There is another practice of the old world foresters which cannot be introduced here. This is the removal of dead tops. The practice is too expensive to be feasible. So it is advised instead that they be merely cut up and scattered, so as not to interfere with young growth and so that, coming in touch with the earth, they will the sooner decay and go to fertilize the soil.

Throat Cut by High Collar.

Emanuel Daveler has discovered something new in the throat cutting line, says a Sterling (Ill.) dispatch. He cut his throat the other day with his collar. The collar was three inches high and heavily starched. He was riding a bike and in dodging a team fell off the machine, landing on his head in a ditch. The impact forced his head down, and the collar cut a gash three inches long, exposing, but not cutting, the windpipe. He was sewed up and will abandon high collars.

QUICK TIME TO LONDON.

Proposed Run From New York in
One Hundred Hours.

New York to London in 100 hours is the problem for which two great American railroad companies are considering two solutions, says the New York Journal.

The New York Central's engineers are working out the details of a plan involving the following route to Europe, with a view of determining its mechanical and commercial probabilities:

New York to Boston by New York Central and Hudson River and Boston and Albany lines.

Boston to St. John, N. B., by Boston and Maine railroad and connections.

St. John to a port on the Irish west coast by a line of swift steamships to be established.

By rail to Dublin; packet across Irish channel; rail to London.

Time, 4 days, 4 hours.

Pennsylvania railroad officials and Clement A. Griscom of the American Steamship company have had brought to their attention anew the long cherished plan of Austin Corbin, who desired to establish a steamship port at Montauk Point, cutting many hours off the trip by way of Sandy Hook and making traffic for the Long Island railroad.

The Corbin plan as modified and proposed to the Pennsylvania, which now controls the Long Island, makes two jumps of the ocean voyage, as follows:

New York to Greenport by Long Island railroad. The East river tunnel, when completed, would make this a two hour run without change from a terminal in down town New York.

Greenport to Halifax, N. S., by fast steamship. Halifax to Southampton.

Estimated time, four days twelve hours.

President Baldwin of the Long Island railroad, when questioned about this plan, said that the idea was familiar to all concerned in his company. "We have taken the ground," he said, "that the railroad will never initiate a service like that. If a steamship company should take it up, it might happen in time. We have the railroad and would be glad to co-operate in the service. I have heard of no definite action taken by anybody to this end."

The purchase of Vanderbilt interest of control of branch lines in New Brunswick and eastern Maine has been reported from that quarter recently.

It is said that these lines are necessary links in such a race and ocean route to Europe as the Vanderbilts are reported to have in mind.

Turned the Tables.

A lecturer was once descending on the superiority of nature over art when an irreverent listener in the audience fired that old question at him:

"How would you look, sir, without your wig?"

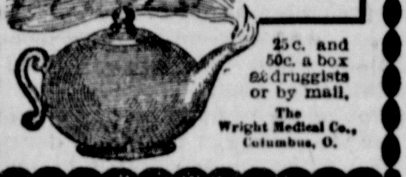

"Young man," instantly replied the lecturer, pointing his finger at him. "You have furnished me an apt illustration for my argument. My baldness can be traced to the artificial habits of our modern civilization, while the wig I am wearing"—here he raised his voice till the windows shook—"is made of natural hair!"

The audience testified its appreciation of the point by loud applause, and the speaker was not interrupted again.

Regulating Use of X Rays.

The cure of cancer and other diseases due to bacteria by the X rays, says a Chicago dispatch, will result in legislative action to prohibit any one but physicians and surgeons operating with the powerful rays upon patients. Dr. Gillman's case of Mrs. Orrin W. Potter, who has suffered for years with cancer, has greatly interested medical men. The Chicago Medical society will ask legislative action.

So sure are the proprietors of "Blood Wine" that it will give satisfaction to all who try it that they have authorized their representatives here, Will Reed and Hodson's drug stores, to give every one a free sample in order that he may judge for himself. "Blood Wine" contains ingredients new in the practice of medicine. It cures disease by charging the blood with a germ-killing fluid that penetrates every particle of the system. It stops coughs, colds and irritations of the bronchial tubes. It kills the germs of consumption and strengthens the lungs. It heals the air passages of the head and overcomes discharges and all symptoms of catarrh. It drives rheumatism and neuralgia out of the body. It sweetens the stomach, corrects digestion and gives the bowels a regular, healthy action. It cures kidney and bladder diseases, and restores to the normal conditions all the functions of the body. It works by completely changing all the blood in your veins and making it rich and healthy. "Blood Wine" sells on its merits, and wins friends as soon as it touches the stomach. Go to your druggist. Investigate all you read and hear about it. Write to those who used it. Read the literature, sample it and if you think it fits your case try a bottle for fifty cents and you'll not be disappointed. FOREST PRESERVATION

Denuded Lands.

Activity of the Federal Government

Few of Uncle Sam's enterprises have brought more joy to the hearts of na-

such attributes of the natural, and men have prophesied that in a few years

the Adirondacks would be cut into lum-rise of American forestry assures us that this will not be the case.

The assumption of forestry work by the government was the result of some very simple facts. Men looked at the lands which had once borne pine and

Wisconsin great stretches of barren waste whose owners had found it so useless that they had allowed it to re-

It would raise nothing but timber, and that being cut away it was useless.
The matter might have ended there and been set down among the inevita-

One Hundred Hours.

New York to London in 100 hours is the problem for which two great American railroad companies are considering two solutions, says the New York Journal.

The New York Central's engineers are working out the details of a plan involving the following route to Europe, with a view of determining its mechanical and commercial probabili-ties:

New York to Boston by New York Central and Hudson River and Boston and Albany lines.

Boston to St. John, N. B., by Boston and Maine railroad and connections.

St. John to a port on the Irish west coast by a line of swift steamships to be established.

By rail to Dublin; packet across Irish channel; rail to London.

Time, 4 days, 4 hours.

Pennsylvania railroad officials and Clement A. Griscom of the American Steamship company have had brought to their attention anew the long cherished plan of Austin Corbin, who desired to establish a steamship port at Montauk Point, cutting many hours off the trip by way of Sandy Hook and making traffic for the Long Island railroad.

The Corbin plan as modified and proposed to the Pennsylvania, which now controls the Long Island, makes two jumps of the ocean voyage, as follows:
New York to Greenport by Long Island railroad. The East river tunnel, when completed, would make this a two hour run without change from a terminal in down town New York.

Greenport to Halifax, N. S., by fast steamship. Halifax to Southampton.
Estimated time, four days twelve hours.

President Baldwin of the Long Island railroad, when questioned about this plan, said that the idea was familiar to all concerned in his company. "We have taken the ground," he said, "that the railroad will never initiate a service like that. If a steamship company should take it up, it might happen in time. We have the railroad and would be glad to co-operate in the service. I have heard of no definite action taken by anybody to this end."

The purchase for Vanderbilt interest of control of branch lines in New Brunswick and eastern Maine has been reported from that quarter recently.

It is said that these lines are necessary links in such a race and ocean route to Europe as the Vanderbilts are reported to have in mind.

an irreverent listener in the audience

tion of the point by loud applause, and

LIGHTHOUSE SUBSTITUTE.

Right Navigation on the St. Lawrence to Be Revolutionized.

An important patent connected with the St. Lawrence navigation has been railroaded through the patent branch, application being made at noon the other day and patent issued the next day and submitted to Mr. Tarte, minister of public works, by whom it will be laid before the cabinet, says an Ottawa (Ont.) special to the New York Times. The patent is designed specially to do away with the lighthouses, buoys and the entire paraphernalia for night navigation between Montreal and Quebec and substitute a submerged electric system, which, however, will apply to all inland navigable waters.

The main idea is to sink an electric cable in the center of the navigable channels, with power transmitted from a power house at Montreal, and lines of colored lights at or above the water level each side of the channel, the lights on one side being of a different color to those on the other side and supported by cork floats. The patentee is H. J. Cloran, mayor of Hawkesbury.

NOTICE OF SALE OF BONDS.

Office of City Clerk.
East Liverpool, O., Nov. 15, 1901.
Sealed proposals will be received at this office until 12 o'clock m., of Tuesday, Dec. 17, 1901, for the purchase of $50,000 bonds of the City of East Liverpool, Ohio.

Said bonds will be dated January 1, 1902, and will bear interest at the rate of 5 per cent per annum, payable semi-annually, on the first days of January and July of each year, and will be of the denomination of One Thousand dollars each. The bonds will be due and payable twenty years from the date thereof, but are redeemable at the option of said city, at any time after ten years from the date of issue, both principal and interest payable at the Chase National bank of the city of New York.

These bonds are issued for the purpose of paying outstanding indebtedness of said city, and by authority of Section 2701 of the Revised Statutes of Ohio, and an ordinance passed by the council of said city, November 14, 1901.

Bidders will be required to state in writing and in figures the gross amount they will pay for the bonds bid for in addition to the accrued interest at the date of delivery, and no bid will be accepted for less than par and accrued interest at date of delivery.

Each proposal must be accompanied by a certified check on some national bank for 5 per cent of the amount of the bid, check to be made payable to the order of the clerk of said city, as a guarantee that if the bid is accepted the bonds will be promptly paid for when delivered, otherwise said deposit to be forfeited to said city.

The city council reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

Proposals shall be addressed to J. N. HANLEY, City Clerk.

STOKES' LAST HOURS.

Relatives Say His Mind Gave Way Months Ago.

AN EVENTFUL CAREER IS ENDED.

Woman Who Says She Was His Widow Recently Refused Brilliant Offer of Marriage—Owed Miss Barclay a Debt of Gratitude—The Incident of Killing of Fisk Recalled.

When Edward S. Stokes died at the home of his sister, in New York, a few days ago, a strangely eventful career was ended.

"Poor Ed was literally out of his mind for the last six months of his life," said one of Mr. Stokes' relatives. "He did not rave, but talked incessantly, telling the secrets of his life."

"It was to keep a guard upon the dying man's lips that his faithful body servant never left his side day or night. As to this Barclay woman, who claims that Stokes married her, I and others of the family are very much in doubt."

"Stokes owed her a mighty debt of gratitude. He may have married her. Nine weeks ago Stokes was given up to die by several of the leading physicians of this city in consultation at his Seventy-ninth street home."

"Their unanimous verdict was that Stokes could not live twelve hours. The Barclay woman urged them to make one more effort for his life. When they shook their heads hopelessly, she begged to be permitted to try a home remedy of her own."

"He is as good as dead," they said. "Do what you choose."

"The woman completely covered the unconscious and apparently dying man with bottles of hot water. The patient rallied from unconsciousness and fell into a restful sleep."

"Within twenty-four hours Stokes was able to leave his bed and go driving."

"I am in a position to state positively that the woman's hand was sought in marriage by a rich and well known New Yorker. He lives in splendid style on Fifth avenue and is prominent in social and club life. He knew Miss Barclay's history and did not conceal his wooing from Stokes. It was a brilliant opportunity."

"But Stokes was then in the grip of the malady destined to kill him. So he refused the man who would have given her his name and clung to the dying man who needed her most. For Stokes to marry her after that test of her loyalty would not have been strange."

Edward Stokes' killing of his partner, James Fisk, was the most tragic incident of his life and seemed to cast a gloom over his subsequent career. This occurred on Jan. 6, 1872, the crime being supposedly incited by Josephine Mansfield. Stokes went to the Grand Central hotel, where he stationed himself in the corridor of the parlor floor, carelessly walking up and down and not appearing to be interested in anything in particular. The main staircase was in front of him. He could see any one entering from Broadway.

Thus stationed he saw Fisk enter and start up the stairs. The latter was seven steps up when he saw Stokes, his right arm resting on the standard at the head of the stairs, a pistol in his hand. Without speaking Stokes fired twice. The first bullet took effect in the abdomen, the second in the left arm. Fisk fell to the floor. Stokes walked away, but was captured before he could leave the hotel.

Colonel Jim Fisk was buried with honors such as New York has bestowed upon few men. Stokes remained in prison. He hired the best counsel in the land and was tried three times, the last time being convicted of manslaughter in the third degree. Grover Cleveland pardoned him from prison in 1877, after he had served four years.

The Mansfield woman fled to Boston after Fisk's death. From there she removed to Paris. In 1891 she married Robert L. Reade, formerly of Minneapolis and New York. Since then she has lived in comparative obscurity.

After Stokes killed Fisk the relations between the former and "Josie" Mansfield ended. When pardoned from prison, Stokes became something of a power in politics and had some influence, but he was not known to have an interest in any living woman. He kept himself from public view and avoided all notoriety.

It is one of the curious stories of Stokes' career that when he was a prisoner in the Tombs in 1872 George Francis Train was also there. Train, while in the prison, organized what he called the "Murderers' club" in murderers' row, with twenty-two members and himself president. Train announced to the members of the club that he would see that not one was hanged.

Small Feet Out of Date in China.

Chinese sentiment is growing in favor of allowing women's feet to grow to a larger and more nearly normal size than has been hitherto the practice. In China the small foot has been for women the mark of aristocratic caste, but it seems that a change is coming. This on the authority of Mme. Wu, wife of the Chinese minister at Washington, who has just returned from a visit to her oriental home.

WU ON FOOTBALL.

Witnesses and Comments on the Game at Detroit.

Wu Ting Fang, minister from China to the United States, witnessed his first football game at Detroit, says a dispatch from that city. It was a clash between the eleven of the University of Michigan and the Carlisle Indian school. Minister Wu arrived at the park in company with General and Mrs. Russell A. Alger during the progress of the first half.

Michigan had scored two touchdowns, and things looked bad for poor L. O. As Minister Wu entered a box in the grand stand the attendants were trying to revive two red men whose heads had come into violent collision with Wolverine anatomy.

"Oh, no," said one of the party's student guides. "Look, they are getting up." "Marvelous tenacity of life," commented the distinguished visitor. "How many sudden deaths would it take to postpone the game?"

Mr. Wu progressed finely in the technique of football. He asked some questions for a time that were posers to his guides. "It is a beautiful thought," said Mr. Wu sentimentally after watching the game for a time, "to think that the fathers of these red men a few years ago were being shot down and hunted, and now their sons are taking strides in civilization, are given a helping hand by a mighty government and—"

At that point two Michigan tacklers got after an unlucky Indian who caught a punt. They chased him fiercely across the field and finally caught him by various portions of his frame with great force. He looked much the worse for wear after the encounter.

UNDERTAKER FOR MAYOR.

How Fagan of Jersey City Fought and Won a Hot Campaign.

Mark M. Fagan, who has been elected mayor of Jersey City, N. J., is by trade an assistant undertaker, working for his uncle at a salary that is said to be not more than $75 a month. By a majority of 4,967 votes he defeated George T. Smith, eastern agent of the Pennsylvania Railroad company, the choice of Bob Davis, leader of the Democratic party in Hudson county and virtual leader of the party in the state. He is unmarried and lives with his sister, who keeps house for him.

He was unique as a campaigner. From the morning following his nomination on Oct. 10 until midnight last Monday he spent his days and nights in conducting a personal canvass. He would start out early in the morning and, mapping out a section of the city, would canvass it systematically and talk with as many men as he could meet. He would enter stores and, with the permission of employers, would enter workshops and factories and talk with the men. He covered the principal factories, the railroad yards, the docks and, in fact, every place where men to talk to could be found. He asked no man to vote for him, but he talked to all on the issues at stake in the campaign and merely asked that the voters consider well the qualifications of the two candidates and vote as they thought best for the interests of the taxpayers. It was votes which Fagan won by his personal canvass and by the excellent campaign of education which was conducted by the campaign speakers and managers. The campaign for aggressiveness beat any campaign ever fought in Hudson county or the state of New Jersey.

DEARER THAN LIBRARIES.

Little Margaret Is Mr. Carnegie's Choicest Treasure.

"She is the only one of my treasures I want for myself," is what Andrew Carnegie says of his ten-year-old daughter Margaret, who returned with him from abroad, says the New York Journal.

Although the multimillionaire believes that "a man who dies rich dies disgraced," his associates in business estimate the fortune that will fall to the lot of his only child at $100,000,000. But that may seem a trifle to a man accustomed to making $1,000,000 gifts as pin money to deserving institutions and $25,000,000 to $30,000,000 to other projects that need money.

Mrs. Carnegie and little Margaret are the only objects in Mr. Carnegie's life that he holds dearer than his libraries.

Margaret is named after Mr. Carnegie's mother. She is not a robust child, but she inherits her mother's gentle disposition and is a bright, active child.

Her doting father is just finishing for her a magnificent castle in Westchester county, a turreted replica of a famous Scottish stronghold, which is to be fitted as sumptuously as a castle for a queen. It is the first piece of property she has ever owned. Needless to say that anything little Miss Margaret wants is hers for the asking.

Distributes Garbage Cans.

Rev. Josiah Strong, now head of the League For Social Service, borrowed a grocer's wagon the other day and, loading some garbage cans in it, drove about Greenwich, Conn., leaving the cans at different points, where the public can deposit litter. This is the beginning of a reform movement which the eminent divine in his connection with the presidency of the improvement association has started to beautify the town.

THIRTEEN DOCTORS FAILED.

Mrs. M. A. Close, of Nebraska, Was Cured of Incipient Consumption After All Medical Aid Had Failed—Read Her Letter.

MRS. M. A. CLOSE.

Kearney, Neb., July 8, 1900.

Dr. S. B. Hartman, Columbus, Ohio:

Dear Doctor— I desire to express to you my sincere thanks for the interest you have shown in my case, and for the timely aid and advice which has effected a cure of as bad a case of consumption as could be well imagined.

"Peruna and Manalin have done what thirteen of the best physicians in the country have failed to do. For more than three years I doctored for consumption, and spent thirteen weeks in a Pulmonary Sanitarium at Milwaukee, Wis.; but finding myself growing worse, as a last resort, I came West where I was bedfast for many weeks, and the physicians which my husband called gave no hope but said, 'She cannot possibly live more than a few days.' But thanks to Peruna, I fooled them all. In an incredibly short time after I began to take Peruna the hemorrhages stopped. I began to mend slowly at first, but the improvement became more marked, and now I can truthfully say that there is not the slightest trace of my old complaint."

"I would have written you a long time ago, but have purposely waited to see if the effect was lasting; and in conclusion I would say, God bless you and keep you with us that you may go on with your work of mercy for many years to come."—MRS. M. A. CLOSE.

P. S.—"I am going to visit friends in Wisconsin who never expected to see me alive again, so please forward mail to me at 579 Pacific street, Appleton, Wis."—M. A. C.

The Flower of November.

With the waning of the autumn comes a radiant, gracious bloom. The chrysanthemum's rich glory set against November's gloom. It ushers in the winter as the Mayflower does the spring. Aromatic odors of the forest seem to cling to its rugged, crumpled petals, to its glowing heart of gold. The rare fragrance of the pine tree distilled by bitter cold.

It were as though the festive month, the closing of the year, waited some burst of sunshine across her skies no drear; It comes—in pearly pinks of dawn, in crimson of the west, In the gold and snow of ermine that might garb a royal guest. 'Tis the farewell of the autumn, this child of frost and fire; Its brave memory lives till green things come to fill the heart's desire.

No Superstition.

"Would you start on a journey on Friday?"
"No, indeed."
"Why are people so superstitious?"
"But this has nothing to do with superstition. I get paid on Saturday."

AN OLD COLD

Is Catarrh, and Catarrh Leads to Consumption.

The tendency of catarrh of the head is to pass downward through the bronchial tubes to the lungs. Any one who has had catarrh of the head for a year or more finds the disease gradually progressing downward. In some cases the progress is rapid, and in other cases it is slow; but sooner or later if catarrh is allowed to run, it will go to the lungs and set up the disease known as consumption. It is doubtful if consumption is ever caused by anything except catarrh.

The catarrh usually begins as a cold in the head or throat, and is neglected until it becomes chronic; then it begins to dawn on the victim that he has catarrh. Unless he is very foolish indeed he will not rest easy until the catarrh is entirely cured. Thousands pay no attention to it until it is too late.

Mrs. J. Priest, Lee, Mich., writes:—"I think there is no medicine on earth that excels Peruna. My husband won't take any other. We have tested it and it worked a great change in my son's health last spring when we thought he was going into consumption. We gave him only one bottle and he was all right. I tell everybody about how much good it has done us. My husband says he can't do without it. As for myself it saved me seven years ago from going blind. I could not see to read one word for six weeks. I thought I should surely lose my sight. I commenced taking Peruna and by the time I had taken one bottle I could see to read as well as ever. We think it is a grand medicine."—Mrs. J. Priest.

Use as Much as Needed.

If Peruna is used a cold never becomes chronic, and hence catarrh is prevented. But after catarrh has become thoroughly established Peruna will cure it, but it will take much longer. Even in cases where catarrh has attacked the lungs and the symptoms of consumption have shown themselves, the Peruna will cure. A great many cases of genuine consumption have been cured with Peruna after the patient had been given up to die, as in the case of Mrs. Close.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Address Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, O.

It was a clash between the eleven of the University of Michigan and the Carlisle Indian school. Minister Wu arrived at the park in company with General and Mrs. Russell A. Alger during the progress of the first half.

Michigan had scored two touchdowns, and things looked bad for poor Lo. As Minister Wu entered a box in the grand stand the attendants were trying to revive two red men whose heads had come into violent collision with Wolverine anatomy.

"Are they dead yet?" queried Mr. Wu, with polite solicitude as he surveyed the spectacle.

"Oh, no," said one of the party's student guides. "Look, they are getting up."

"Marvelous tenacity of life," commented the distinguished visitor. "How many sudden deaths would it take to postpone the game?"

Mr. Wu progressed finely in the technique of football. He asked some questions for a time that were posers to his guides.

"It is a beautiful thought," said Mr. Wu sentimentally after watching the game for a time, "to think that the fathers of these red men a few years ago were being shot down and hunted, and now their sons are taking strides in civilization, are given a helping hand by a mighty government and— At that point two Michigan tacklers got after an unlucky Indian who caught a punt. They chased him fiercely across the field and finally caught him by various portions of his frame with great force. He looked much the worse for wear after the encounter."

UNDERTAKER FOR MAYOR.

How Fagan of Jersey City Fought and Won a Hot Campaign.

Mark M. Fagan, who has been elected mayor of Jersey City, N. J., is by trade an assistant undertaker, working for his uncle at a salary that is said to be not more than $75 a month. By a majority of 4,967 votes he defeated George T. Smith, eastern agent of the Pennsylvania Railroad company, the choice of Bob Davis, leader of the Democratic party in Hudson county and virtual leader of the party in the state. He is unmarried and lives with his sister, who keeps house for him.

He was unique as a campaigner. From the morning following his nomination on Oct. 10 until midnight last Monday he spent his days and nights in conducting a personal canvass. He would start out early in the morning and, mapping out a section of the city, would canvass it systematically and talk with as many men as he could meet. He would enter stores and, with the permission of employers, would enter workshops and factories and talk with the men. He covered the principal factories, the railroad yards, the docks and, in fact, every place where men to talk to could be found. He asked no man to vote for him, but he talked to all on the issues at stake in the campaign and merely asked that the voters consider well the qualifications of the two candidates and vote as they thought best for the interests of the taxpayers. It was votes which Fagan won by his personal canvass and by the excellent campaign of education which was conducted by the campaign speakers and managers. The campaign for aggressiveness beat any campaign ever fought in Hudson county or the state of New Jersey.

DEARER THAN LIBRARIES.

Little Margaret Is Mr. Carnegie's Choicest Treasure.

"She is the only one of my treasures I want for myself," is what Andrew Carnegie says of his ten-year-old daughter Margaret, who returned with him from abroad, says the New York Journal.

Although the multimillionaire believes that "a man who dies rich dies disgraced," his associates in business estimate the fortune that will fall to the lot of his only child at $100,000,000. But that may seem a trifle to a man accustomed to making $1,000,000 gifts as pin money to deserving institutions and $25,000,000 to $30,000,000 to other projects that need money.

Mrs. Carnegie and little Margaret are the only objects in Mr. Carnegie's life that he holds dearer than his libraries. Margaret is named after Mr. Carnegie's mother. She is not a robust child, but she inherits her mother's gentle disposition and is a bright, active child.

Her doting father is just finishing for her a magnificent castle in Westchester county, a turreted replica of a famous Scottish stronghold, which is to be fitted as sumptuously as a castle for a queen. It is the first place of property she has ever owned. Needless to say that anything little Miss Margaret wants is hers for the asking.

Distributes Garbage Cans.

Rev. Josiah Strong, now head of the League For Social Service, borrowed a grocer's wagon the other day and, loading some garbage cans in it, drove about Greenwich, Conn., leaving the cans at different points, where the public can deposit litter. This is the beginning of a reform movement which the eminent divine in his connection with the presidency of the improvement association has started to beautify the town.

THIRTEEN DOCTORS FAILED.

Mrs. M. A. Close, of Nebraska, Was Cured of Incipient Consumption After All Medical Aid Had Failed--Read Her Letter.

MRS. M. A. CLOSE.

Dr. S. B. Hartman, Columbus, Ohio:

Dear Doctor--I desire to express to you my sincere thanks for the interest you have shown in my case, and for the timely aid and advice which has effected a cure of as bad a case of consumption as could be well imagined.

"Peruna and Manalin have done what thirteen of the best physicians in the country have failed to do. For more than three years I doctored for consumption, and spent thirteen weeks in a Pulmonary Sanitarium at Milwaukee, Wis.; but finding myself growing worse, as a last resort, I came West where I was bedfast for many weeks, and the physicians which my husband called gave no hope but said, 'She cannot possibly live more than a few days.' But thanks to Peruna, I fooled them all. In an incredibly short time after I began to take Peruna the hemorrhages stopped. I began to mend slowly at first, but the improvement became more marked, and now I can truthfully say that there is not the slightest trace of my old complaint."

"I would have written you a long time ago, but have purposely waited to see if the effect was lasting; and in conclusion I would say, God bless you and keep you with us that you may go on with your work of mercy for many years to come."--MRS. M. A. CLOSE.

P. S.--"I am going to visit friends in Wisconsin who never expected to see me alive again, so please forward mail to me at 579 Pacific street, Appleton, Wis."--M. A. C.

The Flower of November.

With the waning of the autumn comes a radiant, gracious bloom. The chrysanthemum's rich glory set against November's gloom. It ushers in the winter as the Mayflower does the spring. Aromatic odors of the forest seem to cling to its ragged, crumpled petals, to its glowing heart of gold. The rare fragrance of the pine tree distilled by bitter cold.

It were as though the frosty month, the closing of the year, waited some burst of sunshine across her skies so dreary; comes in pearls of dawn, in crimson of the west, in the gold and snow of ermine that might garb a royal guest. 'Tis the farewell of the autumn, this child of frost and fire; its brave memory lives till green things come to fill the heart's desire. --Good Housekeeping.

No Superstition. "Would you start on a journey on Friday?" "No, indeed." "Why are people so superstitious?" "But this has nothing to do with superstition. I get paid on Saturday."

A small iron pot holding about a quart, which is still preserved, was cast at the Lynn foundry in 1645. It was the first iron article made from native ore in America.

AN OLD COLD

Is Catarrh, and Catarrh Leads to Consumption.

The tendency of catarrh of the head is to pass downward through the bronchial tubes to the lungs. Any one who has had catarrh of the head for a year or more finds the disease gradually progressing downward. In some cases the progress is rapid, and in other cases it is slow; but sooner or later if catarrh is allowed to run, it will go to the lungs and set up the disease known as consumption. It is doubtful if consumption is ever caused by anything except catarrh.

The catarrh usually begins as a cold in the head or throat, and is neglected until it becomes chronic; then it begins to dawn on the victim that he has catarrh. Unless he is very foolish indeed he will not rest easy until the catarrh is entirely cured. Thousands pay no attention to it until it is too late.

Mrs. J. Priest, Lee, Mich., writes:--"I think there is no medicine on earth that excels Peruna. My husband won't take any other. We have tested it and it worked a great change in my son's health last spring when we thought he was going into consumption. We gave him only one bottle and he was all right. I tell everybody about how much good it has done us. My husband says he can't do without it. As for myself it saved me seven years ago from going blind. I could not see to read one word for six weeks. I thought I should surely lose my sight. I commenced taking Peruna and by the time I had taken one bottle I could see to read as well as ever. We think it is a grand medicine."--Mrs. J. Priest.

Use as Much as Needed. If Peruna is used a cold never becomes chronic, and hence catarrh is prevented. But after catarrh has become thoroughly established Peruna will cure it, but it will take much longer. Even in cases where catarrh has attacked the lungs and the symptoms of consumption have shown themselves, the Peruna will cure. A great many cases of genuine consumption have been cured with Peruna after the patients had been given up to die, as in the case of Mrs. Close.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis. Address Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, O.

Miss Corinne Gilmore, 103 Vance St., Memphis, Tenn., uses Peruna for colds and catarrh.

THE OPENING DAY A GRAND SUCCESS

Thousands of People Thronged the New J. G. McCrorey 5 and 10 Cent Store.

CROWD WAITED TWO HOURS

Police Force Were on Hand to Help Handle the Big Crowd Which Clamored for Admittance Long Before the Opening Hour.

The opening of the J. G. McCrorey 5 and 10 cent store, located in the new Oyster building on Sixth street, took place this morning at 9 o'clock, and was an event long to be remembered by the people of East Liverpool. For two hours before the doors opened a great crowd of people thronged the street in front of the establishment, anxiously awaiting to be admitted.

Six policemen were on hand to help keep the immense crowd in line, and it was necessary to lock the doors several times during the forenoon until the customers, who had been able to gain admittance, could be waited on.

The bargains offered by this new firm are undoubtedly the greatest ever offered the people of this vicinity. Many will wonder why they can sell such values for 5 and 10 cents. Imagine a large clothes basket or an umbrella being sold for 10 cents, yet hundreds of them were sold at that price today.

Fancy decorated cuspidors, in many different patterns, were also sold for 10 cents. The candy counters were loaded with fine grades of candies from which hundreds of pounds were sold at from 5 to 10 cents per pound. Thousands of other bargains all over the store went at proportionally low prices, and the same low prices which prevail today are good for any day in the week.

The new establishment in this city is the 25th store owned and controlled by J. G. McCrorey in different parts of the country. He buys his goods by the car load, and is thus able to undersell his competitors in every city in which he has competition.

If you have not yet visited the new store here, be sure and do so, as there are hundreds of bargains in one line or another that will interest you 131-h

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

Mix stove blacking with a little ammonia to prevent it burning off. A teakettle should never be allowed to stand on the side of the fire with a small quantity of water in it.

A rose potpourri is made by packing fresh rose petals in salt, a layer of the petals, then a layer of salt, and keeping them covered for six months.

A convenient substitute for a cork-screw when the latter is not at hand may be found in the use of a common screw with an attached string to pull the cork.

For ink stains on furniture add six drops of nitric to a teaspoonful of water and apply it to the stain with a feather. If the stain does not yield to the first application, make it stronger and repeat the process.

Stains on silverware require prompt attention, otherwise it will take a long time to remove them. Sulphuric acid will remove the stain left by medicine. Dip the spoon in the acid, repeating the process until the stain has disappeared; then wash in very hot water.

Diluting Tea.

Few housekeepers remember, as they should, that when it is necessary to dilute strong tea it should be done with water at the boiling point. The poor flavor of tea, made strong at first and then reduced, such as is too often served at receptions and "at homes," is usually caused by the addition of hot, not boiling, water to the first infusion. A lesson in this matter may be had from the Russians, who serve the most delicious tea in the world, and who prepare it first very strong, making it almost an essence of tea. This is diluted to the strength wished, with water kept boiling in the samovar. This water is not allowed to boil and reboil, but is renewed as needed. Freshly boiled water is insisted upon by all connoisseurs in teamaking.

Ceilings and Ventilation. Rooms with low ceilings or with ceilings even with the window tops are susceptible of more perfect ventilation than those with high ceilings. In such rooms the leakage at the windows, which is constantly going on, keeps the air in motion throughout the room, whereas if the ceiling is higher only the lower part of the air is moved, and an inverted lake of foul and hot air is left floating in the space above the window tops. This lake, under the law of diffusion of gases, keeps actively at work, fouling the fresh currents circulating beneath it.

AN OVERWORKED PHRASE.

The Expression "He Took His Life in His Hands."

"The expression 'he took his life in his hands' always struck me as being very foolish," said a bright young gentleman, "and I have often wondered why so many persons persist in using it when they want to speak of extraordinary dangers. Now, extraordinary danger is one thing and the simple, commonplace thing of taking one's own life in one's hands is an entirely different thing.

"I work in a big building. There are a steam engine and a mammoth boiler in the basement. Whenever I enter that building, if they are running the engine in the basement, I take my life in my hands. I get on the elevator on the fifth floor; I take my life in my hands. I go out of town; the car may tumble over a trestle somewhere. I walk along the street; a sign may fall on me. I make my way across the thoroughfare; who knows but what a street car or a vehicle of some sort may not run me down? I cross the river; may I not suddenly find myself in the swirling stream and sinking for the last time? If I walk along the street, may not a brick or a loosened cornice come crashing down upon me? There are a row and a shot or two on the corner; may not a stray bullet wing me? And so on.

"Pessimism? No. Logic. That's all. It just shows the difference between taking one's own life in one's hand and the matter of confronting extraordinary danger. These risks are ordinary, plain, old, everyday risks. The fireman who dashes into a burning building to rescue a child, the fellow who grabs the bridle of a runaway horse, the hero who will plunge into the river to save some person who is about to drown—these are the persons who confront what I would call extraordinary dangers, and the worn platitude of saying of one of these 'he took his life in his hands' would not fit the case because there would be in the act an element of heroism which would place it much above the commonplace."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

HOYT'S JOKE ON M'KEE.

How the Playwright Had a Bit of Fun With His Manager.

On one occasion Manager McKee was watching a performance from a box, where he was seated with some friends.

During the first act an usher came to him with the information that a gentleman was waiting at the door to see him on most important business.

"Tell him I can't come out—I'm very busy," was the answer.

The usher returned in a moment to say that the man insisted on seeing Mr. McKee, who again sent out word that it was impossible to see him.

The man outside then sent in the message that he was an author and had a play that he wished McKee to read immediately.

This incensed the manager, who said to the usher:

"Tell that fool out there that this is no time to bring a play to be read. Get him out of the place—I won't see him. I won't read his play."

A few minutes later the usher came back and informed McKee that the man utterly refused to go without seeing him, and that he must be granted an interview, also that he was quite sure that the manager would not only read his play, but he would also produce it, and added that he would bet $1,000 that Hoyt & McKee would be only too glad to get the play.

At that McKee became furiously angry, and, excusing himself to his party, left the box with the intention of personally inviting the persistent author to begone.

"Where's that idiot who insists on seeing me?" he asked of the treasurer at the box office. Then the treasurer pointed to a man standing in the shadow with a roll of manuscript under his arm.

It was Hoyt, with his newly finished play, which he handed to McKee, who said to those present:

"It's on me—what'll you have, boys?"—New York Clipper.

Odors That Permeate Foodstuffs.

A fish dealer in one of the most stylish parts of New York was deeply hurt and badly worried one day by the complaint of one of his big customers that a fine salmon which he had sent to the house for a big dinner had proved to be entirely uneatable when served owing to a most penetrating taste of creosote that pervaded it. The fish dealer realized, although the charge was not made directly, that he was more than suspected of having sold a stale fish that had been washed or brushed with an antiseptic preparation to hide its condition. He knew that the salmon had been perfectly fresh when he sold it, and for days he puzzled in vain over the problem. But suddenly he remembered that on the day the fish was sent out a tank wagon full of creosote had stopped before his place and that his cart, into which the fish was being placed, was directly alongside of the powerful stuff. That appears to have been enough to permeate the delicate flesh of the fish.—New York Press.

"I have found a cure," said a physician, "for a person who isn't chronically afflicted with insomnia, but who temporarily cannot sleep. It is a curious thing that the picture of a person yawning will almost invariably induce sleep.

"Try it yourself some time if you come across such a photograph. For the life of you you can't help yawning, after a moment, and persistent gazing at the sleepy head will almost inevitably send you to the couch for a nap."—New York Times.

THOMPSON HOUSE TO BE REMODELED

An Additional Story Containing Twenty-Two More Rooms Will Be Built.

WORK HAS BEEN STARTED

Steam Heat Will Be Used And the House Will Be Remodeled From Top to Bottom—New Furniture for Every Room.

Workmen are now busy on the projected improvements of the Thompson house, and Landlord Polk expects to push the work to completion by the holidays, when, he says, East Liverpool will have as fine a hotel as there is in any city of like size in the country.

In the spring another story is to be added to the Thompson house, which will give 22 more rooms. This would have been done by the present time had not the contractor been unable to procure labor. Hence, the work will not start on that part until spring.

Everything is to be put in modern shape at the Thompson house. William Polk's genial courtesy and efficiency of service to guests has given him a very wide reputation as a hotel man and his place is always filled with transient patrons.

It costs 50 cents for a meal at the Thompson house, but the cuisine is quite equal to the best that can be found anywhere. The Thompson house table is first-class and is constantly winning trade for Mr. Polk.

Costly new furniture is being purchased for the house, each room is to have steam heat and everything to be found in a strictly up-to-date hotel. 131-h

Hymns at $500 a Yard.

A musical composer once said to Mr. Sankey with more frankness than courtesy that he could write such tunes as those of the "Gospel Hymnbook" by the yard if he were willing to come down to it. Mr. Sankey quietly replied, "Well, sir, all I have to say is that I am willing to pay five hundred dollars a yard, either to you or to anybody else, for all the tunes you can bring me like those in our 'Gospel Hymnbook.'"—Ladies' Home Journal.

THE OPENING DAY A GRAND SUCCESS

Thousands of People Thronged the New J. G. McCrorey 5 and 10 Cent Store.

Police Force Were on Hand to Help Handle the Big Crowd Which Clamored for Admittance Long Before the Opening Hour.

The opening of the J. G. McCrorey 5 and 10 cent store, located in the new Oyster building on Sixth street, took place this morning at 9 o'clock, and was an event long to be remembered by the people of East Liverpool. For two hours before the doors opened a great crowd of people thronged the street in front of the establishment, anxiously awaiting to be admitted.

Six policemen were on hand to help keep the immense crowd in line, and it was necessary to lock the doors several times during the forenoon until the customers who had been able to gain admittance, could be waited on.

The bargains offered by this new firm are undoubtedly the greatest ever offered the people of this vicinity. Many will wonder why they can sell such values for 5 and 10 cents. Imagine a large clothes basket or an umbrella being sold for 10 cents, yet hundreds of them were sold at that price today.

Fancy decorated cuspidors, in many different patterns, were also sold for 10 cents. The candy counters were loaded with fine grades of candies from which hundreds of pounds were sold at from 5 to 10 cents per pound. Thousands of other bargains all over the store went at proportionally low prices, and the same low prices which prevail today are good for any day in the week.

The new establishment in this city is the 25th store owned and controlled by J. G. McCrorey in different parts of the country. He buys his goods by the car load, and is thus able to undersell his competitors in every city in which he has competition.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

Mix stove blacking with a little ammonia to prevent it burning off.

A teakettle should never be allowed to stand on the side of the fire with a small quantity of water in it.

A rose potpourri is made by packing fresh rose petals in salt, a layer of the petals, then a layer of salt, and keeping them covered for six months.

A convenient substitute for a cork-screw when the latter is not at hand may be found in the use of a common screw with an attached string to pull the cork.

For ink stains on furniture add six drops of niter to a teaspoonful of water and apply it to the stain with a feather. If the stain does not yield to the first application, make it stronger and repeat the process.

Stains on silverware require prompt attention, otherwise it will take a long time to remove them. Sulphuric acid will remove the stain left by medicine. Dip the spoon in the acid, repeating the process until the stain has disappeared; then wash in very hot water.

Diluting Tea.

Few housekeepers remember, as they should, that when it is necessary to dilute strong tea it should be done with water at the boiling point. The poor flavor of tea, made strong at first and then reduced, such as is too often served at receptions and "at homes," is usually caused by the addition of hot, not boiling, water to the first infusion. A lesson in this matter may be had from the Russians, who serve the most delicious tea in the world, and who prepare it first very strong, making it almost an essence of tea. This is diluted to the strength wished, with water kept boiling in the samovar. This water is not allowed to boil and reboil, but is renewed as needed. Freshly boiled water is insisted upon by all connoisseurs in teamaking.

Ceilings and Ventilation.

Rooms with low ceilings or with ceilings even with the window tops are susceptible of more perfect ventilation than those with high ceilings. In such rooms the leakage at the windows, which is constantly going on, keeps the air in motion throughout the room, whereas if the ceiling is higher only the lower part of the air is moved, and an inverted lake of foul and hot air is left floating in the space above the window tops. This lake, under the law of diffusion of gases, keeps actively at work, fanning the fresh currents circulating beneath it.

AN OVERWORKED PHRASE.

The Expression "He Took His Life in His Hands."

"The expression 'he took his life in his hands' always struck me as being very foolish," said a bright young gentleman, "and I have often wondered why so many persons persist in using it when they want to speak of extraordinary dangers. Now, extraordinary danger is one thing and the simple, commonplace thing of taking one's own life in one's hands is an entirely different thing."

"I work in a big building. There are a steam engine and a mammoth boiler in the basement. Whenever I enter that building, if they are running the engine in the basement, I take my life in my hands. I get on the elevator on the fifth floor; I take my life in my hands. I go out of town; the car may tumble over a trestle somewhere. I walk along the street; a sign may fall on me. I make my way across the thoroughfare; who knows but what a street car or a vehicle of some sort may run me down? I cross the river; may I not suddenly find myself in the swirling stream and sinking for the last time? If I walk along the street, may not a brick or a loosened cornice come crashing down upon me? There are a row and a shot or two on the corner; may not a stray bullet wing me? And so on."

"Pessimism? No. Logic. That's all. It just shows the difference between taking one's own life in one's hand and the matter of confronting extraordinary danger. These risks are ordinary, plain, old, everyday risks. The fireman who dashes into a burning building to rescue a child, the fellow who grabs the bridle of a runaway horse, the hero who will plunge into the river to save some person who is about to drown—these are the persons who confront what I would call extraordinary dangers, and the worn platitude of saying of one of these 'he took his life in his hands' would not fit the case because there would be in the act an element of heroism which would place it much above the commonplace."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

HOYT'S JOKE ON M'KEE.

How the Playwright Had a Bit of Fun With His Manager.

On one occasion Manager McKee was watching a performance from a box, where he was seated with some friends.

During the first act an usher came to him with the information that a gentleman was waiting at the door to see him on most important business.

"Tell him I can't come out—I'm very busy," was the answer.

The usher returned in a moment to say that the man insisted on seeing Mr. McKee, who again sent out word that it was impossible to see him.

The man outside then sent in the message that he was an author and had a play that he wished McKee to read immediately.

This incensed the manager, who said to the usher:

"Tell that fool out there that this is no time to bring a play to be read. Get him out of the place—I won't see him. I won't read his play."

A few minutes later the usher came back and informed McKee that the man utterly refused to go without seeing him, and that he must be granted an interview, also that he was quite sure that the manager would not only read his play, but he would also produce it, and added that he would bet $1,000 that Hoyt & McKee would be only too glad to get the play.

At that McKee became furiously angry, and, excusing himself to his party, left the box with the intention of personally inviting the persistent author to begone.

"Where's that idiot who insists on seeing me?" he asked of the treasurer at the box office. Then the treasurer pointed to a man standing in the shadow with a roll of manuscript under his arm.

It was Hoyt, with his newly finished play, which he handed to McKee, who said to those present:

Odors That Permeate Foodstuffs.

A fish dealer in one of the most stylish parts of New York was deeply hurt and badly worried one day by the complaint of one of his big customers that a fine salmon which he had sent to the house for a big dinner had proved to be entirely uneatable when served owing to a most penetrating taste of creosote that pervaded it. The fish dealer realized, although the charge was not made directly, that he was more than suspected of having sold a stale fish that had been washed or brushed with an antiseptic preparation to hide its condition. He knew that the salmon had been perfectly fresh when he sold it, and for days he puzzled in vain over the problem. But suddenly he remembered that on the day the fish was sent out a tank wagon full of creosote had stopped before his place and that his cart, into which the fish was being placed, was directly alongside of the powerful stuff. That appears to have been enough to permeate the delicate flesh of the fish.—New York Press.

"I have found a cure," said a physician, "for a person who isn't chronically afflicted with insomnia, but who temporarily cannot sleep. It is a curious thing that the picture of a person yawning will almost invariably induce sleep."

"Try it yourself some time if you come across such a photograph. For the life of you can't help yawning, after a moment, and persistent gazing at the sleepy head will almost inevitably send you to the couch for a nap."—New York Times.

An Additional Story Containing Twenty-Two More Rooms Will Be Built.

WORK HAS BEEN STARTED

Steam Heat Will Be Used And the House Will Be Remodeled From Top to Bottom—New Furniture for Every Room.

Workmen are now busy on the projected improvements of the Thompson house, and Landlord Polk expects to push the work to completion by the holidays, when, he says, East Liverpool will have as fine a hotel as there is in any city of like size in the country.

In the spring another story is to be added to the Thompson house, which will give 22 more rooms. This would have been done by the present time had not the contractor been unable to procure labor. Hence, the work will not start on that part until spring.

Everything is to be put in modern shape at the Thompson house. William Polk's genial courtesy and efficiency of service to guests has given him a very wide reputation as a hotel man and his place is always filled with transient patrons.

It costs 50 cents for a meal at the Thompson house, but the cuisine is quite equal to the best that can be found anywhere. The Thompson house table is first-class and is constantly winning trade for Mr. Polk.
